BRIBERY DENIED BY SANTOSUOSSO

Frederick H. Graves' sworn story that he paid $40,000 to then-Mayor James M. Curley and Dr. Joseph Santosuosso to "fix" an $85,000 settlement in a water-damage suit against the city, was denied by two witnesses at Graves' trial for perjury today.

Dr. Santosuosso himself, called as a state's witness, testified that he and then Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman virtually had arrived at an agreement to settle the damage suit two or three weeks before Curley went to Washington—where Graves has sworn the $40,000 "deal" took place.

Silverman, who preceded Santosuosso to the stand, testified:

"I was with Mayor Curley in Washington practically all the time. To my knowledge, Mayor Curley did not see or speak to Graves.

"Moreover, I, and I alone, arranged for the settlement of the General Equipment case. Mayor Curley didn't even know it had been settled until three or four days after the agreed-upon judgment had been entered."

Silverman, on the stand, burst into laughter when Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle asked him if were true he received $2500 in connection with the case "and returned it."

"No, I didn't," he testified, laughing. "I never received any gratuity."

Santosuosso, on the witness tand, was asked:

"Did you ever introduce Graves to Mayor Curley or to Silverman?"

"No," he answered.

DENIES "FIXED JURY"

Q—Did you ever give or offer any money to SiSilverman? A—Never.

Q—Did you ever talk about a "fixer jury" to Graves? A—No.

Q—Did you ever receive any money from Graves to be paid to any city official? A—No, not one cent.

Santosuosso, who was attorney for the General Equipment Corporation, which had the water-damage suit against the city, admitted he talked to Mayor Curley "several times" about the case. But each time, he testified today, Curley told

Mexico to Pay For Seized Lands

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Post-Dispatch says, in a copyrighted dispatch from Mexico City, that President Lazaro Cardenas disclosed yesterday the Mexican government had agreed to pay American owners for their expropriated lands.

Cardenas told the newspaper's staff correspondent, Marquis W. Childs, only details of payment remained to be worked out between Mexico and the United States government.

At the same time, Cardenas declared his government would accept no compromise on the issue of expropriated properties of British and American oil companies.

Work Yourself To Death! Try And Collect

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 14 (AP)—The man who collapsed from overwork has no claim for compensation under a ruling by the state Supreme Court.

The ruling was made in the case of Christopher Malley, stricken with a heart attack while making milk deliveries in Hoboken. He was awarded $20 week compensation and the award was upheld by the Hudson County court. He died while an appeal was being carried further. His estate continued the case.

"In homely phrase," said Justice Parker in the court's opinion, "if the evidence shows anything, it is simply a case of overwork, the sort of case that arises every day, among all classes and in all kinds of work."

U. S. to Arm To Teeth, F. D. R. Hints

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (INS)—President Roosevelt today indicated that the United States will be forced to plunge immediately into a rearmament program on a scale never before contemplated in peacetime.

This drastic step has been necessitated, the President told his press conference, by recent international developments which have bred foreign danger to the nation's security.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that grave international developments require that the United States make a complete re-study of its entire national defense needs. Until this study can be made, he said, all comment on next year's budget must be deferred.

He revealed that such a re-study of national defense, taking up not only the question of navy, army and air corps needs, but the vital subject of industrial supply of munitions and arms on a mass production scale, will be completed by December.

When Congress convenes the President's first message will deal with this new problem of national defense and he probably will call for national defense expenditures far exceeding the record expenditures of the past three or four years.

One of the most important problems which must be dealt with, he said, is means by which America's industries can be put on a mass production basis for every armament need, particularly airplanes, at a moment's notice.

Ex-Army Officer in Pleads Guilty to Spy Ring Charge

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Guenther Gustav Rumrich, former United States army sergeant, unexpectedly pleaded guilty to espionage charges in federal court today as he was about to go on trial with three other persons, accused of being spies.

GUENTHER RUMRICH | JOHANNA HOFFMAN | ERICH GLASER

Rumrich, alleged by the government to have stolen a military aviation code, was a native of Chicago and the son of German parents. He deserted from the army in 1935.

He entered his plea as Judge John C. Knox was about to order a jury empaneled for the first important espionage trial in the United States since the World War. Judge Knox deferred sentence until the end of the trial.

COURTROOM JAMMED

The courtroom was filled to capacity long before Judge Knox mounted the bench. Newspaper men and women, including representatives of the more important European journals and a number of "unofficial" observers, jammed the room.

Rumrich's co-defendants, who watched him change his plea in silence, are Johanna Hofmann, 26-year-old former hairdresser on the North German Lloyd liner Europa, accused of having acted as a messenger for the so-called spy ring; Otto Herman Voss, 36, a naturalized German formerly employed at the Seversky airplant plant at Farmingdale, L. I., where American army planes are under construction, and Eric Glaser, 28, another naturalized German, who was attached to the United States army as a private at the Mitchel aviation field.

FACE 20 YEARS

Voss is accused of stealing plans for a high-speed pursuit plane, Glaser of stealing aviation secrets.

If convicted they face a maximum penalty of 20 years' imprisonment each.

A jury of 10 men and two women was chosen in an hour and a half to try the remaining three defendants.

Harvard Warned on Radicals

Hicks List of 'Red' Books Revealed

A "Red' reading list, allegedly compiled and recommended by Granville Hicks, Harvard's Communist tutor in American history, was cited today by groups demanding Hicks' dismissal.

Spokesmen for these groups charged that the so-called "Hicks list" of recommended reading included inflammatory and subversive writings by Lenin and Stalin of Russia; by Earl Browder, U. S. Communist No. 1; and by John Strachey, now banned from this country as an advocate of the overthrow of Democratic government.

Recent reappearance of Hicks as an open and militant campaigner for Communism aroused a new storm of public criticism.

This was accompanied by warning that public officials and other leading citizens would seek withdrawal of Harvard's Massachusetts charter if the university continued to give Hicks' social-political activities apparent tolerance.

Those assailing Hicks and his so-called misuse of his Harvard tie-up pointed today to the Hicks "Red" reading list as evidence of the alleged subversive and radical turn of mind of the young American history consultant.

The list, as quoted, was taken from a recent number of the Communist weekly, "The New Masses," for which Hicks sought financial support this week at a meeting attended by several hundred Harvard students.

BOOKS ON HIS LIST

Under a heading, "Granville Hicks Recommends," the list included:

"State and Revolution," by V. I. Lenin (late Soviet dictator and master mind and leader of the Red terror in Russia).

Spy Widow Says Reed 'Didn't Fall'

"I didn't say he fell for me."

That was the declaration of Mrs. Ione Nugent in Dedham court today in her testimony describing her first meeting with Philip Loring Reed, millionaire financier, whom she is suing for $50,000.

The actress-widow of an army lieutenant claims that amount due from Reed for self-styled "spy work for him in Washington political circles and among country-wide business rivals.

Warned by Judge Dwight Fullerton that continued indulgence in her comments from the stand would make her liable for contempt, Mrs. Nugent today testified in subdued tones.

Under cross-examination of Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, counsel for Reed, the witness was again questioned closely about the details of her initial conference with the financier in New York city in 1936.

QUIZZED ON MEETING

She maintained that "he became interested" in her because of the "important information" she was able to furnish him.

Asked by Attorney Bushnell what degree of "interest" Reed showed, Mrs. Nugent replied.

"He didn't fall for me, if that is what you mean."

Previously, the witness had testified that at their first New York meeting she and Reed had a "couple of drinks" together, but that the banking magnate "did not kiss me at that time."

POSED AS REPORTER

Under further cross-examination, Mrs. Nugent said that she had impersonated a reporter to get a statement from Mrs. Reed by telephone relative to the suit filed against her husband.

She denied, however, that she represented herself as a reporter in order to obtain a settlement of the suit by suggesting the case would receive publicity.

The witness also admitted she has a $50,000 action pending against the Ritz Carlton hotel for slander.

She said the suit was filed because the hotel management had circulated her name as a bad credit risk to all hotels throughout the country.

Mrs. Nugent also told the court she had withheld from her present counsel "all the facts about my spy work" because she feared their relation might close the door to other jobs of a similar nature.

ON STAND—Mrs. Ione Nugent takes witness stand in Dedham court to describe her first meeting with financier Philip Loring Reed, whom she is suing for $50,000. "I didn't say he fell for me," she declared.

3rd Boat Race Is Postponed

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 14 (INS)—Fog and lack of wind today caused postponement until tomorrow of the third international fishermen's race between the Canadian champion Bluenose and the Gloucester challenger Gertrude L. Thebaud.

Both vessels went out to the starting line of the 18-mile twice-around "merry-go-round" course but after a half-hour delay, the committee decided to call off the race.

The vessels will race tomorrow over the same course.

Sally 'In Fog' as Wedding Nears

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

(International News Service Special Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Sally Clark, the singing sister-in-law of young John Roosevelt, advanced the date of her marriage to George McLanahan by a month, for two reasons:

1—The engaged couple decided to spend their honeymoon in Honolulu instead of Nassau.

2—They suddenly realized that January 6, the original date, was too close to New Year's eve, and that the prenuptial and holiday festivities would clash.

Sally Clark

Love versus a career, and giving it all up for George, had nothing to do with it, Sally said today.

"I'm in a complete fog over this getting married business," she sighed. "It's so complicated.

"I haven't done a thing about my trousseau, and I've spent hours looking for things for the bridesmaids to wear, and it's simply terrifying. I mean it's harrowing."

Sitting in her room at the Hotel Plaza, where she is currently engaged as a torch singer, Sally recited the awesome complication attached to the process of getting married.

"Everybody calls me up and wants to sell me things for my trousseau, or wedding invitations or photographs," she said. "I never knew it was such a strenuous ordeal. I don't know how I'll possibly get ready in time."

"In time" is by December 3, the new date for the marriage, which will take place in Immanuel Episcopal Church, Boston.

Little Tobin Girl Calls Up Dying Boy

Helen Louise Tobin, the five-year-old daughter of Mayor Tobin, followed suit of her playmate, Shirley Temple, today, and called up Johnny English, 14, at the Mercy Hospital in Chicago. She heard her Daddy talk about Johnny at the dinner table. About how sick he was. And how Shirley had called him on the phone.

The doctors said Johnny would die a month ago. Only the Cubs' drive for a pennant kept him alive.

Well, hadn't Helen Louise and Shirley played together last summer when Shirley visited Boston? So nothing would do but that Helen must call Johnny.

The young lady insisted. She won out. Mother put the call through for her.

A soft voice came over the wire announcing "Mercy Hospital." Helen Louise spoke in a thrilled childish treble.

"I want to talk to Johnny English. This is Helen Louise Tobin. My father is the mayor of Boston. And I want to ask Johnny to come and see me."

"This is Sister Mary Edwina, The Sister Superior," the voice explained

"How is Johnny?" Helen Louise asked excitedly.

"He's a very sick boy, dear."

"Can I speak to him?" Helen Louise pleaded.

"I'm sorry, darling," Sister Superior answered. "But last night he had a very, very bad time. Right now he's too sick to talk on the phone."

"Can he come to Boston to visit me at Christmas and see the Christmas tree on the Common?" asked Helen Louise.

"Well, I don't know, dear. I'm sure he'd love to. I'll give him your message."

The Sister Superior confided to Mrs. Tobin that Johnny's hopes of Christmas were slim. He has a rare and incurable form of cancer.

Nazi, Catholic Split Widens

VIENNA, Oct. 14 (AP)—Nazi leaders said today the breach between the state and the Catholic church was wider than ever, after Austrian Nazi Commissioner Joseph Buerckel's anti-cleric speech, and predicted many Nazis would withdraw from the church.

Buerckel's listeners in Heroes' square last night cried "we'll leave the church" after he announced:

"If they pray against us in church, then I demand of every individual National Socialist that we have nothing more to do with such a church."

Buerckel, commissioned by Chancellor Hitler to handle the details of integrating Austria into the Reich, revealed that negotiations for a working agreement with the church had been broken off.

He charged the Catholic leaders delayed the negotiations because they "speculated" on a war over Czechoslovakia which would give them a "new chance."

He blamed Czechoslovak Jews for demonstrations in behalf of Theodore Cardinal Innitzer last Friday. The demonstration fired Nazi resentment, and in fighting on Saturday the cardinal was injured by a stone. Windows of his palace were broken.

"I have decided," Buerckel said, "that all Czechoslovak Jews and those Czechs who compromised must leave Vienna as soon as possible."

Laying down new measures against the Austrian Catholic hierarchy, Buerckel rejected Catholic proposals for the release of Kurt Schusschnigg, deposed chancellor.

No more preparatory schools for the priesthood will be permitted, Buerckel asserted.

Vatican Newspaper Flays Nazi Attack

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, today accused German authorities of defending the Nazi mob which attacked the Vienna palace of Theodore Cardinal Innitzer last Saturday night with "the impudent excuse of Catholic provocation."

The Vatican organ in indignant terms declared that the attack on the cardinal's palace was "the poisoned fruit of daily unpunished, encouraged campaigns of anti-Catholic accusations and vituperation."

Blast Wrecks Polish Balloon

ZAKOPANE, Poland, Oct. 14 (AP)—An explosion seriously damaged the "Star of Poland" stratosphere balloon today and a projected ascension was postponed until next year.

The builders had hoped the gigantic balloon would rise 15 miles above sea level. During deflation the hydrogen exploded. No casualties resulted.

Franco Troops Rout Enemy

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier), Oct. 14 (AP)—The Insurgents, aided by heavy reinforcements, succeeded today in driving government militiamen partly out of the strategic positions they had recaptured in the Pandol mountains on the Ebro front.

The government, admitting these reverses, insisted, however, its troops still were holding the dominant hills commanding the entire range.

Madrid, former government capital, was shelled for more than an hour last night by Insurgent batteries.

FOREST FIRE CHECKED

MIDDLESEX, Vt., Oct. 14 (AP)—A forest fire which has swept more than 100 acres of woodland near Middlesex Center was believed under control today.

Britain to Form Volunteer Reserve

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The British government established today a middle-aged territorial army reserve corps, to be made up of light anti-aircraft units to protect "certain vital industrial establishments against attack by low-flying aircraft."

The units will be recruited from the factories concerned, and members will serve only at places where they are employed. The age limits were fixed between 38 and 50.

Grand Jury Will Probe Lynching

RUSTON, La., Oct. 14 (AP)—District Judge E. L. Walker said today he would call a special session of the Lincoln Parish grand jury to investigate the lynching yesterday of R. C. Williams, 19-year-old Negro.

A mob of several hundred men caught the Negro, marched him to the spot where they said he killed R. M. Blair, 30, Jonesboro paper-mill foreman Tuesday night and slugged his woman companion, and hanged him from a tree before riddling his body with bullets.

Fights School Ban on Child

An Ipswich mother today asked the Massachusetts Supreme Court to order the town of Ipswich to admit her five-year-old daughter to its schools.

Mrs. Consuelo . Hills claims that the town will not admit her daughter, Mathilda, to school despite the fact that last year the girl went through the first grade in Hamilton schools and was duly promoted to the second grade.

Under a ruling passed in September, 1937, Ipswich town officials claim they have the right to refuse admittance to their schools of children under six years of age.

Churches Set New Membership High

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Christian Herald in its annual report sets church membership in the United States at a new high in 1937, with a total of 63,848,094 for all religious bodies.

Total Protestant membership stood at 35,879,311, while the Roman Catholic church had 21,322,688. Other denominations, including Jewish congregations with 4,081,242, made up the total.

Teacher Aided In Ouster Fight

The Civil Liberties Committee of Boston will proceed along two parallel lines of appeal against the discharge of Miss Christina Alach from the Medfield schools, it was learned today.

Miss Alach lost her job as teacher when Superintendent of Schools Lyman Allen recognized her in a photograph taken of an alleged Communist group picketing the Boston office of the British consul after the capitulation of Neville Chamberlain to Adolph Hitler in the Czechoslovakian crisis.

Orville S. Poland, committee spokesman, said he believed recourse might be had to the courts on the question of the contract under which Miss Alach was employed.

Another appeal might be sought, he indicated, on the allegation that her constitutional rights as a citizen had been denied when she was penalized for joining the picket line.

The ousted teacher lives in Framingham with her parents, natives of the Russian Ukraine. She was born in the United States.

Miss Alach has denied that she knew the pickets had Communistic tendencies.

"I was in sympathy with Czechoslovakia," she said, "and I didn't like Hitler."

Lieutenants Augustine J. Fitzpatrick and A. F. Sharry of the Somerville police today awaited their appointments as captain. The board of aldermen will act next week on the appointments, made by Mayor John M. Lynch.

Hunt Two Who Painted Girl

FINDLAY, O., Oct. 14 (AP)—Two men who attacked 18-year-old Betty Gazarek, daubed vile words on her body with paint and left her in a roadside ditch were hunted today.

Sheriff Lyle Harvitt said the girl was taken to a hospital after a motorist discovered her plight.

While her father, Steve Gazarek, waited in his automobile, Harvitt said, Betty went to a store to buy red paint and a brush.

"As she left the store, two men pushed her into an automobile and drove away," the sheriff said.

"They drove all night, finally stopping at some farm or outbuilding. The men took her clothing from her, attacked her and painted vile words on her body with her own paint and brush. They then shoved her into a ditch."

Near Tragedy Hits Stricken Folk

DEEP RIVER, Ct., Oct. 14 (AP)—Irving Beckwith, 82, father of Willis Beckwith who, with five of his eight children, burned to death in a fire at their home October 2, recuperated from a broken left arm today.

His injury, suffered in a fall yesterday at his Chester farm, left his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Willis Beckwith, the only member of her family not injured or ill.

Mrs. Irving Beckwith has been bedridden for some time and her daughter-in-law was caring for her when the fire occurred.

The three surviving Beckwith children suffered broken left arms in escaping the fire.

The "Beckwith Fund" committee, soliciting funds for the stricken family, reports contributions of $2395.72.

Joy In Humble Home As Lame Girl Walks

The happiest place in Greater Boston is the modest home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fagan, Lexington street, East Boston.

There, pretty 10-year-old Natalie Fagan is hobbling about on crutches.

Crutches may not appear at first glance as any cause for jubilation. But for seven years Natalie has been unable to walk at all. Both her legs have been encased in heavy iron braces.

She fell a victim to dread infantile paralysis when she was 3.

Early treatment at Boston City Hospital checked the disease, but failed to restore her ability to walk.

Three months ago, however, she again was taken to city hospital, and was operated on by a distinguished New York surgeon.

Today, the braces are discarded. Eventually, it is hoped, she will be able to discard the crutches, too, and will be able to walk unaided.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—President Roosevelt was warned today that Chancellor Hitler plans to use Nazi Germany's military might in a thrust at the new world.

The secret Nazi plan of strategy was conveyed to the President by Bernard Baruch, chairman of the war industries board during the World War.

Baruch, who has just completed a three-month confidential mission in Europe for this government, was summoned home by President Roosevelt at the height of the German-Czech crisis.

ARMED DEFENSE URGED

The distinguished financier and authority on world affairs told the President the only way the United States can prevent a German onslaught on the new world is to build immediately an army, navy and air force second to none and mobilize the nation's industry on virtually a war footing.

Administration circles predicted the President will announce shortly a vast-scale rearmament program to place the armed forces of the nation on a defense footing adequate to ward off any foreign attack on South America or this country.

BIG AIR FORCE

The rearmament program, on a five-year basis, is expected to cost approximately $7,500,000,000.

A major portion of the program would be aimed at modernizing, fully equipping and expanding the army and air corps, establishing powder plants and gun factories, and putting private industry on a basis for immediate manufacture of war materials.

Baruch ended a series of conferences yesterday with President Roosevelt and Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson. Afterward, in an interview, the financier told this correspondent of the threat Germany's military strength is to America, and the immediate steps he is convinced must be taken if Hitler is to be prevented from seizing a portion of South America.

WAR ONLY DELAYED

The "peace" of Munich, Baruch said, was an ignominious acceptance of defeat by England and France before a stronger power, and only puts off the day when war must come.

Although Germany has taken Austria and dismembered Czechoslovakia without firing a shot, she has made little headway in gaining raw materials and markets for her manufactured goods, which she desperately needs, Baruch said.

This desperation means imminent danger to America, he stated.

"The threat to the United States from Germany is in South America and is real and immediate," Baruch asserted.

"Hitler demands raw materials and markets for his manufactured goods. Where can he get them? In Europe? Hardly? In Africa? It is already taken by England, France and Italy. In the Orient? Japan dominates there.

U. S. ONLY DEFENDER

"The only place Hitler can turn to is South America. It is the last continental outpost of free governments. The Latin-American republics are comparatively defenseless. Only the United States can prevent their seizure by a strong totalitarian power such as Germany.

"Already Germany, Japan and Italy, but especially Germany, have made deep economic inroads into South America.

"There might be a Nazi or a Fascist government in any one of several South American countries tomorrow—it almost happened in Brazil—and what would prevent them from giving Germany, Italy or Japan naval bases?"

Truck Crash Ties Traffic

Boston-bound passengers, including many school-children, were delayed for 17 minutes during the morning rush hour today when traffic was tied up by a collision between a Washington street trolley car and a truck in Forest Hills.

No one was injured in the crash, but the truck was disabled, blocking the inbound carline. Passengers received transfers and had to walk to the Forest Hills "L" terminal to get another train there.

Girl's Murderer Clue Is Found In Manhattan

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—Latest clue in the mystery murder of 17-year-old Mary Coyle sent New York detectives scurrying through Manhattan today in search of a former Larchmont man who, police said, answers the general description of a person who recently alarmed young women in New Rochelle.

(The New York Journal-American in an exclusive story said Westchester police definitely knew the identity of the girl's killer who has been missing from his home since the killing.)

Nature of the clue was not disclosed but the man formerly worked near the New Rochelle houseboat that was Mary's home before her battered and attacked body was found behind a Larchmont theater Tuesday.

Since transferring his residence to Manhattan, the man has returned frequently at night to New Rochelle. Police declined to say whether his car was similar to the brown sedan or coupe in which Mary's body was believed to have been carried from the murder scene to the theater lot.

One clue collapsed with disclosure that hair clutched in Mary's fingers apparently was from her own head.

Battleship Bids Again Delayed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Requests from prospective bidders for more time to prepare preliminary estimates and to negotiate with sub-contractors have resulted in a second two-week postponement of the opening of bids on three new battleships.

The navy delayed the bid opening to November 2. Originally set for October 5, the bid opening previously was postponed until October 19.

Girl Trousseau Thief Jailed

SALEM, Oct. 14—Alleged to have stolen finery for herself and her fiance to wear on their intended honeymoon, a broken-hearted and disillusioned Lynn girl sobbed, all alone, in jail here today.

Her sweetheart, also charged with larceny, went free, bailed out by relatives who wasted no sympathy on his expectant bride.

He didn't stop even to say "Goodbye and good luck" to the girl "trousseau thief," pretty, chestnut-haired Agnes Murphy, 20, of Essex street, Lynn.

Arraigned in district court today, she was found guilty on five complaints charging her with stealing from local department stores.

JAIL AND FINE

Judge George B. Sears sentenced her to an indefinite term at Sherborn reformatory on one count and fined her $50 each on the other four.

Pleading not guilty, she appealed and was held in $900.

Just behind Miss Murphy in court sat 22-year-old George A. Chapman of Green street, Lynn, the boy she said she loved and planned to marry.

Accused by police of having been an accomplice in the alleged thefts of wedding and honeymoon clothing, young Chapman was charged with three counts of larceny.

UNDER $500 BAIL

Judge Sears sentenced him to six months in the house of correction on one count and fined him $50 each on the other two.

Like Miss Murphy, Chapman pleaded not guilty and appealed. He was held in $500.

The courtroom setting was one not favored to romance, but the attractive, tearful young girl defendant seized her opportunity to talk to her companion in trouble.

They had been separated since their arrest, a week ago.

IGNORES HIS GIRL

But if pretty Miss Murphy hoped for a demonstration of loyalty from her alleged fiance, she was disappointed.

He sat stonily, with averted face, declining to answer his girl friend's increasingly distressed whispers.

Then the judge rapped for order, and chance of further conversation between the defendants was ended.

After sentence had been imposed and bail set, Miss Murhpy was led away, to be locked in a cell at police headquarters until arrangements could be made to transfer he rto Salem jail.

Young Chapman, with his mother and his aunt comfortingly at his elbow, strode to the clerk's desk to have his bail arranged.

SOBS IN LONELY WOE

Not until she was actually alone and deserted, behind jail bars, did the girl "trousseau thief" seem to realize her plight. Then she broke down and sobbed, almost in complete collapse.

Vet Post to Name Square in Roxbury

The square at Columbus and Walnut avenues, Roxbury, will be named in honor of the late Eugene T. Maloney next Sunday at 2 p.m. by the Herbert J. Wolf Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

A parade to the square at 1 p.m. will be headed by the House of Angel Guardian Band. Rev. Father Finnigan of St. Mary's Church will officiate at the dedication. Soldiers' Relief Commissioner Herman L. Bush will represent Mayor Tobin.

Repose for Dead Asked at Novenas

Petitions for the repose of deceased relatives and friends comprise the majority of intentions submitted by persons making the novena to the Sorrowful Mother at Holy Cross Cathedral, now in its fifth week, priests announced today.

The Rev. Harry M. O'Connor, Cathedral administrator, said that a study of the petitions reveals novenites to be unselfish and asking for spiritual rather than material aid.

$25 every suit with 2 trousers

First time at $30!
Spartan Worsteds

These expensive looking suits are bench-tailored by the master union needleworkers of our new Rochester plant. And they're tagged for the first time, so that you can enjoy their luxury without feeling extravagant. Be sure to see them!

$30 with 2 trousers

Let's waste no time on talk. Were these suits tagged $30 or $35 (which is just about what they're worth) a neatly worded selling story might be indicated. At $25 — and with 2 trousers — a simple invitation to "come-and-get-'em" will clear our racks in jig-time. That's been the record every time we stage a party like this. ★ If you've never crashed the gate on one of our $25 SPECIALS, here's a bit of advice. Before you pass through our front door, decide to be tough. Come in expecting a lot for your money! Demand woolens that you know belong at higher levels. Look for tailoring that belongs in expensive clothing. Be particular about style and fit. And above all, ask to see a big selection. Do these things, and you'll sell yourself! ★ With prices up where they are, suits like these — at this price — are worth going for in a big way. But please get here early. We've a hunch that late arrivals will find stocks pretty well shot to pieces.

Charge it the Bond way — it costs you nothing extra

This tried and tested old standby has the largest following in the country — because it's such a convenient way to buy good clothes. It permits you to pay out of income, either weekly or twice a month, at no extra charge.

Increase CCC Rolls by 13,138 In 3 Months

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, announced today the CCC enrollment quota for the three months which started October 1 had been increased by 13,138.

He also authorized enrollment of 1567 additional project assistants, enrollers with technical qualifications for supervisory work.

These increases brought the replacement enlistment quota for the quarter to 58,716, sufficient to bring the total enrollment up to the authorized 300,000.

How They Speed To Pay Car Tax!

Car owners who have been dodging their taxes and insurance payments were stumbling over one another today in their rush to the offices of the tax collectors. Tomorrow a law with enough teeth to bite becomes effective.

Sponsored and directed by Tax Commissioner Long and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin, the commonwealth has unleashed a relentless drive against tax evaders, and especially against persons who register autos from false addresses.

False registration may be punished by a $200 fine and two years in jail. And state authorities intend to press cases of fictitious registration. Goodwin says Boston has 10,000 delinquents, many of whom have registered their machines from false addresses. Some even registered from cemeteries.

CIO GROUP WINS VICTORY

Loans to 'Save China' Weighed By Roosevelt

(Copyright, 1938)

WASHINGTON, Oct 14 (INS)—Indications that the administration contemplates further, large-scale financial aid to reeling China came from official quarters today as President Roosevelt gave audience to K. P. Chen of the Chinese mission sent here to obtain such help.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau sat in on the conference, as China's military and economic extremity was pointed.

Officials said Chen previously told Morgenthau Generalissimo Chiang Kai Chek must have food for his armies and people and railway equipment to haul it if he is to continue to stand up against Japanese military pounding.

Presumably, Chen reiterated the imminence of the disaster facing the nationalist government in his talk with the President.

Chen reportedly was armed with New York assurances that much-needed heavy machinery could be sold to China on easy terms providing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation underwrote part of the credit risk.

Chen's associates are understood to have told Agriculture Department officials famine could be staved off if the American government disposed of surplus wheat and cotton to the Chinese on the same subsidized basis Secretary Wallace proposes selling to American "underprivileged one-third."

Morgenthau and no inquiries on matters affecting China have been reached, but informed quarters reported Chen and Treasury officials had reached virtual agreement for continuance by the Treasury of Chinese silver purchases, the decisive factor in the stability of China's yuan.

Curley Lashes Saltonstall as 'Fake Democrat'

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

[illegible] Republican candidate for [illegible] was [illegible] as [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] were the property of [illegible] New Deal and the New Deal [illegible]

"Many of you must have known Mr Saltonstall in the past," Curley declared.

"I wonder if you recognize him in his new disguise.

"His suddenly acquired coat and vest, his overalls, his peaked cap, and his thick-soled brogans certainly have changed his former appearance.

"They are brand new to him, but, in reality, they are second-hand. In fact, any person familiar with the public record of James M. Curley will recognize in Mr. Saltonstall's ill-fitting raiment the identical garments I have been wearing throughout my public career.

"I like to turn to his labor, social security and old-age pension record in the Legislature to make certain that it is actually as black as it was painted by [illegible] and that its blackness is 96 3-10 per cent total. Upon 27 labor and old-age assistance bills, Mr Saltonstall cast one vote for labor and a paltry 26 votes against labor."

Palestine Jews Ask U. S. Help

JERUSALEM, Oct. 14 (AP)—Jews in Palestine holding United States citizenship made plans today for an early conference of all Jewish-American investors in the Holy Land to express to Great Britain and the United States opposition against any restrictions on Jewish immigration into Palestine.

[illegible] to the Jews in Palestine [illegible] appeal to the British government not to break [illegible] the Balfour Declaration [illegible] League of Nations [illegible]

[illegible] the basis of the Balfour Declaration of November 2, 1917 [illegible] was [illegible] to facilitate the [illegible] Jewish [illegible] Jewish [illegible] and [illegible] enterprise in the Holy Land.

CHEERED BY FLEAS

The projected conference would be held in Tel Aviv.

American Jews were cheered by the flood of telegrams to Washington [illegible] the American government to intervene with the British government in favor of permitting continued entry of Jews into Palestine.

The Jewish agency for Palestine [illegible] to a warning by the Jewish defense committee [illegible] with the declaration that further [illegible] would not deter the Zionist movement.

SOUND WARNING

The Arab committee of Nablus warned Jews in Palestine that if [illegible] restrictions on Jewish immigration into Palestine [illegible] would expect grave trouble if the Zionist movement persisted in further immigration into Palestine.

A Jewish agency statement said, "we see a possibility of fruitful cooperation between Arabs and Jews in Palestine, but an essential condition is the recognition of the basic rights of the Jewish people in the Holy Land."

'Aid Jews' Plea Of Gov. Murphy

CONCORD, N. H. Oct 14 (AP) Governor Frances P. Murphy today asked President Roosevelt to use his influence to have the English mandate in Palestine continued.

In a telegram to the President he said:

"Many American citizens of Jewish extraction would find themselves in a serious plight should the English government relinquish its mandate in Palestine. The Jews are legally in that country with the promise of international protection and they are being threatened with grave injustice."

27 Night Clubs Are Sued Over Use of Songs

"Pennies From Heaven" may cost a Revere night club dollars from its pocket.

Before a jury-waived session in Federal Court today the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers demanded $250 from the establishment, and from 26 others, for infringement of copyright.

Stewart Myers, field representative for the society, told Judge Francis Ford he visited the club and heard a five-piece orchestra play the song after the society had written the management and asked for a copyright fee.

Anne Rooney, 19 of Broadway, Arlington, said she kept a card index for the society on many other popular songs which are being played throughout the state with out permission.

She testified she sent a letter to the Revere club warning of infringement. H. D. Kesso, employe of the club denied he ever received the letter or signed a special delivery slip for it.

Myers added field investigators have returned evidence on 27 restaurants and clubs in the state. The society has filed suit against all of them.

Drewry Fears Relief Rule

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The veteran member of the House of Representatives, who is directing the Democratic Congressional campaign, as chairman of his party's committee, has reached the conclusion that a change must be made in the system of relief administration.

He is Representative Pat Drewry of Virginia, who formed and sharpened his political instincts under the late distinguished Senator John W. Daniel.

Mr. Drewry's apprehensions are shared by a great many of his colleagues, possibly by a majority of them. They see [illegible] upon on a [illegible] as an emergency measure, threatening to become a fixed [illegible] upon the regular annual budget of the federal government.

It is widely recognized in Congress that with the [illegible] no other way [illegible] per [illegible] have found [illegible] way of changing [illegible] administration becomes a matter of more thought [illegible]

"Relief was never intended to be permanent," Drewry said. "It has gotten to be a serious problem. Relief may or may not become a permanent policy of government. That is for the future to determine.

PRIVATE HANDS

"I would prefer that it should not become a permanent policy. Relief should be administered as it always was in this country, before the government took charge. That is to say, relief should be in private hands.

"But if relief should become a permanent policy of the federal government, then I would be in favor of having it handled in a more definite way than it is at present.

"Without having given the matter the consideration it deserves, I have thought the best way would be for the federal government to give its aid to the various states, each state matching the federal appropriation with an equal amount appropriated from its own treasury.

"And I have thought that the states should carry out the same idea, by requiring the smaller town and county units to match the fund supplied from the state treasury.

"There are some objections to this plan, but the advantage would be that relief would be administered in the local communities by those familiar with the local situation, with the exact requirements, and with the reputations and character of the beneficiaries of relief.

REVEAL CONCERN

These views of Chairman Drewry are interesting, in that they reveal that whereas many Senators and House members are deeply concerned today over the question of relief cost and administration, many conflicting views are certain to be expressed.

This is natural and need not be discouraging. The most encouraging thing today is not that all Congressmen [illegible] upon a [illegible] san relief, but that a great many of the [illegible] as well as [illegible] can be found, who [illegible] more conservative [illegible] relief.

Differences [illegible] can be reconciled when Congress [illegible] The important thing for Democratic voters in the present campaign to remember is that it is necessary for them for their own protection, to see to it that no candidates for Senate or House receive their votes, who are unwilling to accept the principle of non-partisan relief.

Once this principle is accepted and subscribed to honestly by a majority of Congress, the way will be opened to the removal of relief from bureaucratic control in Washington.

The perversion of the whole plan [illegible] of relief is what must be stamped out. The method will follow naturally, once the principle has been accepted in good faith by those who make the laws.

Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire issued a strong plea to take "relief out of politics."

"I think the country is united in demanding that the unemployed and the unfortunate shall be taken care of, and surely it should be united in demanding that, in the administration of relief and public works, the government shall maintain a high sense of trusteeship responsibility," he said.

"These matters are too serious to be exploited by politicians more intent on grabbing than giving.

Take Politics Out of Relief

Citizens, before you vote, ask these questions of all candidates for Congress:

"Do you stand for the principle that there must be no political control or influence in the handling of relief funds, pump-priming money, agricultural benefit money or social security money?

"Do you favor the principle of having all such public expenditures supervised by a non-partisan, non-political board employing civil service personnel?

"Do you pledge yourself to work for the proper measures to put these principles into practical operation?"

Thow 'Em an Anchor!

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—It is proper to toss an anchor to a person drowning in Great Salt Lake, says Prof. Thomas C. Adams of the University of Utah.

A 15-pound weight in about right to hold a distressed bather's feet down in the highly buoyant water, he discovered in tests conducted by boy scouts. A life preserver tips a swimmer face down.

Pianos Donated By Chickering

Rudy Vallee, Benny Goodman and Harry Marshard, the big three of the dace band world, are assured the best in pianos when they come to Boston Garden on October 24th, thanks to the cooperation of the Chickering Piano Company.

Herman Spain of the Boston office has arranged to have four of the finest Chickerings at the Garden when these headliners stage their "Swing vs. Straight" battle.

A. F. of L. Ends Session on Note Of Labor Peace

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 14 (AP)—American Federation of Labor unions armed for war by approximately, as soon for peace in labor's internal affairs today turned over to their executive council for action the policy mandates of the 58th annual convention which adjourned last night.

Jammed into the program in an 11-day meeting were a dozen controversial issues calling for action on the political and industrial fronts. The convention voted to meet in San Francisco in 1939.

GREEN RE-ELECTED

After the tumult and debating over dictators and the New Deal in the closing days of the session, the convention closed on a high note of peace.

It was extended to William Green in a unanimous action for the 15th time the presidency of the A. F. of L.

"I promise to you," Green said, "that I shall make every contribution that lies within my power toward the promotion of peace in the labor movement; I shall do what I can to heal the wounds and close the breach and unite the forces of labor."

WAR CHEST VOTES

His appeal to seek unity with the CIO followed convention action approving the continuation of the War Chest special assessment levied a year ago. It was recommended that the council be authorized to act on the battle and at the same time stand ready to respond to any genuine appeal for peace.

There was a possibility, some delegates said, that President [illegible] would succeed in bringing the two federations together, particularly in view of his message to the convention urging labor leaders to "make and keep" peace and prevent the "unnecessary waste of human energy" which otherwise is bound to [illegible] the workers themselves.

Heavy Losses In Jap Drives

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14 (AP)—Heavy losses were admitted by both sides today as the 164th day of undeclared Chinese-Japanese war swept over scores of battle miles in 11 Chinese provinces.

Invaders from the sea smashed toward the Canton-Kowloon railroad in South China with the aim of severing vital communications systems.

More than 50 miles to the north, Chinese columns reported to have forced the ring of defenses around Hankow. Japanese airmen swept shelled coastal towns and villages in the area. Fighting [illegible] from Biza Bay [illegible] Hankow.

Bitter fighting raged in the Sinyang section on the Peiping-Hankow railroad 100 miles north of Hankow.

Clyde Castleman Joins Benedicts

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 14 (AP)—Clyde Castleman, New York Giant right handed pitcher, and Miss Rebecca Paine, both suburban Donelson, were married.

Silverman Clears Curley

him to "see Silverman" that he was Silverman's responsibility.

"DIDN'T MEAN" 10S $40,000"

"Did Grave[illegible]mention anything to yours[illegible]bout $40,000 having to be paid to Mayor Curley?" Santosuosso was asked.

"No," he replied.

It was following this that Santosuosso testified that as a matter of fact he and Silverman already had written a letter setting forth an agreement to settle the General Equipment case, but that it never was sent to Washington.

"Silverman offered $70,000; I was holding out for $90,000," Santosuosso testified.

A surprise witness preceding Silverman on the stand today was Attorney William Shaw McCall of Lexington, one of the attorneys of the Boston bar.

McCallum testified that Graves moved a year by reason of Graves' wife apparently conferred with Attorney Edward F. McGlynn, special counsel, for the city in the suit to recover the $40,000 from Curley and Santosuosso.

MENTION OF FOLEY

It was in this suit that Graves is alleged to have committed the perjury for which he now is on trial.

McCallum testified the letter contained the sentence

"I hesitate writing Foley."

This apparently referred to Corporation Counsel Foley. McCallum, however, was entirely unqualified, he stated on the stand today and sent Graves a telegram reading:

"Unintelligible to me. Which Foley do you refer to? What matter do you refer to?"

He would not even have sent the telegram, he said, only he knows an Attorney Frederick Graves in New York and thought maybe the letter might be from him.

AGREED TO FIGHT CASE

Silverman admitted that Attorney Charles Morton, former Democratic state chairman, and the head of the state's law commission, and former Curley commissioner, discussed the General Equipment case with him.

Morton testified yesterday.

He first talked with McGlue case in May or June and said and then talked to Mayor Curley.

"I told the mayor," Silverman testified, "that McGlue had been in to see me about the General Equipment case. I told Mayor Curley the case should be tried and tried to the hilt, and that I would not consider adjustment or settlement.

"He agreed with me that that should be done.

NEVER KNEW GRAVES

"I assigned the case to Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles E. Fay (now dead). After the case had been assigned to Fay I never saw McGlue on the case again."

Q—Did you ever see Graves? A—I never saw Graves in my life until he entered this courtroom.

Q—When was the first time you heard the name of Graves mentioned? A—When I read the report of the Boston Finance commission on the General Equipment case in the papers in 1936.

The General Equipment case, for damages, Silverman said, was referred to an auditor. This auditor an attorney named Coveney, it was brought out now also is dead.

"TRIED TO THE HILT"

Q—When was the first time Dr. Santosuosso conferred with you about the case? A—I can't give you any exact date, but it was after McGlue had left the case. It was before the auditor's hearing.

"I told the mayor the case was being tried to the hilt," Silverman said. "The mayor said, 'That's fine! That's all right!' or some comment like that."

Q—In the month of November, 1932, did you have any conversation with Dr. Santosuosso with reference to receiving gratuities? A—I certainly did not!

Q—Did you ever receive $2500 as a gratuity?

Here, Silverman laughed and replied

"I did not."

"—and return it?" Prosecutor Boyle pursued.

Still laughing, Silverman said

"No, I did not. I never received any gratuity."

"FIGHT!" SAID CURLEY

Q—The auditor made a report? A—Yes.

"I told the mayor," Silverman testified, "that the auditor had found the city was not liable in negligence, and that he had fixed damages at 120-odd thousand, and that he had made an extensive report.

"Mayor Curley asked me what that meant.

"I told him the report would go before a jury.

"He said, 'that's fine. Go right to it and fight it out.'"

Q—Did you have any conversations with Dr. Santosuosso about a possible settlement of the case after that? A—The doctor asked me if I would make any offer of settlement. I said no, that the case had to be tried.

The case, it was brought out, was tried before Judge Marcus Morton and a jury in January, 1933. The jury returned a verdict of $120,000 damages against the city. Judge Morton set aside the verdict, with leave reserved.

SURPRISED AT VERDICT

Silverman testified

"I told Mayor Curley I believed the judge was in error in excluding an agreement made between the General Equipment people and the owner of the building they occupied. I told the mayor I was rather surprised at the verdict and the outcome shocked me, that the jury should bring in that verdict.

"I told the mayor, 'I can't quite follow this case. The judge stated it was solely a question of fact, and when the jury decided adversely to the city the judge set the verdict aside as a question of law.'"

Q—What did Mayor Curley say? A—The mayor agreed the case should be fought out.

Q—During the summer of 1933

Denies Graves Bribe

did you meet Dr. Santosuosso? A—Repeatedly.

Q—Did you talk of a settlement? A—I think my first offer to settle the case was for $25,000 or $30,000.

Q—Had you conferred with the mayor prior to submitting that offer? A—I did not. It was based on approval by the mayor, however. If he didn't approve it, it wouldn't go through.

Q—After you had submitted this offer, did you have any conference with the Mayor about it? A—I talked with Mayor Curley and told him I had made an offer, or "feeler," as I called it, of $25,000 to see how he (Santosuosso) would take it. The Mayor said, "That's a matter that's up to you. That's your responsibility."

WOULDN'T PAY $100,000

Q—Previous to going to Washington in 1935 with Mayor Curley, where and what was your last conference with Santosuosso? A—In November. His last offer of settlement was $100,000. I told him I would not. My last offer in the summer was $50,000. I told him I rather gamble on going up (to the higher courts) and take a chance on losing it all, rather than pay $100,000.

Q—What did Mayor Curley say to you, if anything, relative to what amounts, if any, should be offered or paid? A—The Mayor said the job was mine, and my responsibility, and he would be governed by my judgment.

Q—Did Graves buy you any lunches in Washington? I never saw him.

DERRICK FALLS,1 DROWNED

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14 (AP)—At least one man was drowned and more than 20 others were rescued from the Allegheny river today when a tall building derrick broke and toppled 20 feet from the New Sheffield Park bridge in Pittsburgh's East End.

15,000 Arrive For Church Fete

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 14 (INS)—New Orleans a city Catholic since its inception took on a papal but solemn appearance today as the first of more than 100,000 devout Catholics from every section of the United States began arriving for the eighth national Eucharistic Congress.

With more than 15,000 visitors already in the city, final touches were being applied to make this historic French-Spanish metropolis one truly in keeping with the solemnity of the occasion to pay homage to Jesus Christ.

Dies On 'First Job'

GARDNER, Oct. 14 (AP)—Happy at his first night's work "in a long while," Leslie Sprowson, 25, of Shirley, was buried today in a sandslide which partially buried four other men.

A medical examiner pronounced him dead "of suffocation" when his body finally was recovered.

Wed 47 Years, Then Divorced

A marriage that had united two people through 47 years and over two continents ended in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Mrs. Ella Wolpert of Intervale street, Roxbury, was granted an uncontested divorce from Max Wolpert of New York city on the grounds of desertion.

"We were married in Russia April 4, 1891," Mrs. Wolpert testified. "We have two sons and three daughters.

"In 1927, when my youngest daughter was to marry, my husband agreed to pay her wedding expenses. Then later he refused. There was an argument and he left his home."

Mrs. Eva [illegible] of Brookline, whose wedding caused the rift, testified for her mother.

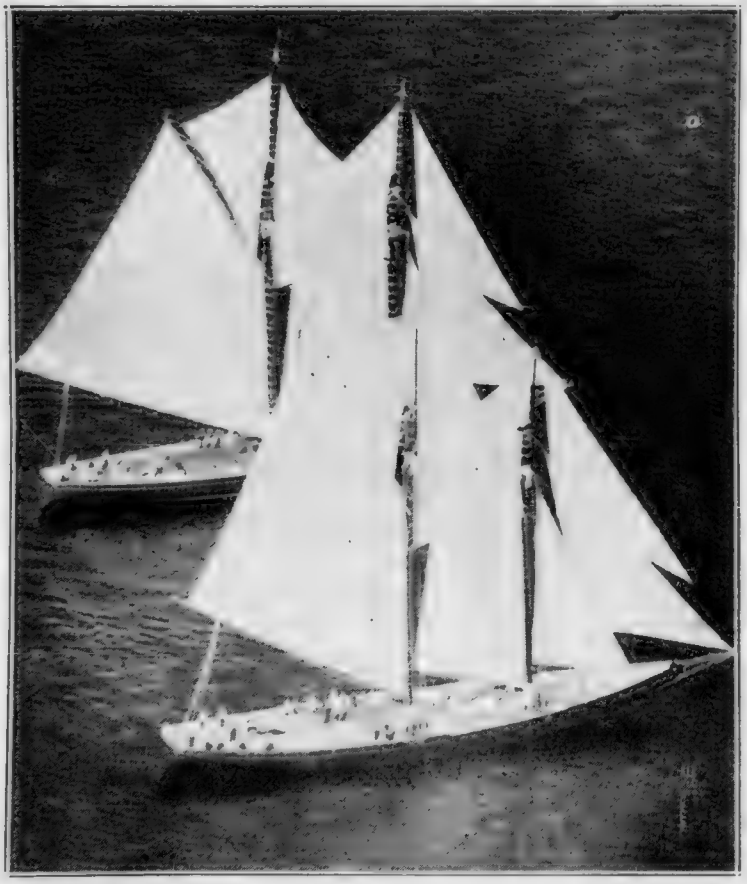
Eyes Front for Harvard

'Kaydets' Arrive—Members of the West Point football team who are to play Harvard Saturday, are shown as they took Eastern Greyhound Bus from Auburndale Station, Newtonville. They headed for Belmont Country Club where they will be quartered until game time. The Army mule received quite a slap last week at the hands of Columbia, and they aim to take it out on the Harvardians Saturday.

Romantic mood of winter is the guiding motif of this strapless evening gown. Ensemble of Hungarian imports, adapted from Huzzar scabbards, hair clip, earrings, and massive bracelet and pendant lend aura of glamor.



Together but only for a shirt time as Bluenose, Canadian fisherman, ran away from rival Gertrude L. Thebaud, Gloucester's pride. Lack of strong wind slowed up second race in series of five.

Professor's 'Seeing Eye' Found Again

Dog whose "seeing eye" training helps his master, Prof. Emeritus John G. Hart of Harvard, was found after being lost five days. Since an eye operation, Prof. Hart depends on Chumley to get around. Daughter Nora poses with Hart and dog.

THE EVIL SHADOW

The Editor Says:—The movement to take relief out of politics has developed out of and is being DICTATED BY THE EXPERIENCE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

Political control of relief is PERPETUATING THE DEPRESSION. That fact cannot be denied.

Political control of relief is reducing the ballot, which should be used by the people with complete freedom from all restraint, to an actual INSTRUMENT OF COERCION.

Let Congress create a NON-PARTISAN COMMISSION to administer relief. That is the simplest, best and most satisfactory way to TAKE RELIEF OUT OF POLITICS.

GRANVILLE HICKS, Harvard College's American History counselor, is again in the news, once more the target of a storm of public criticism.

When Mr. Hicks received his Harvard appointment last April, assurances were given that his time and efforts would be devoted to education, not to propaganda.

Now what is happening?

We find Mr. Hicks attending a meeting sponsored by the John Reed Society, an organization named for the writer whose body the Soviet government interred with high honors in the Kremlin at Moscow.

We behold Mr. Hicks mounting the speaker's platform to deliver a rousing plea in behalf of "left wing" journalism, to go so far as to urge listeners to contribute financial support.

We read an announcement that a few weeks hence Mr. Hicks will address a Communist party rally, at which a principal speaker will be Earl Browder, executive head of the Red forces in the United States.

Two questions, therefore, are important. Thousands in New England and elsewhere throughout the nation will surely ask them.

Can any person associated with such an eminent institution as Harvard so separate himself from his academic work that the college will not be held responsible for what he says and does? That is the first question.

What will be done as a result of the apparent determination on the part of Granville Hicks to continue his activities in defiance of widespread public resentment? That is the other question.

The answers are entirely up to the Harvard College administration.

It seems impossible for Mr. Hicks to divest himself of radicalism.

But it is not impossible for Harvard to divest itself of Mr. Hicks.

FOREST FIRES threaten large New England areas. Federal authorities, having surveyed sections devastated by the recent hurricane, say only the greatest caution can prevent widespread destruction.

These authorities find that the number of fallen trees exceeds the amount ordinarily cut down in a five-year period. Piled in some forests to a depth of 20 feet, the wood would burn like tinder, menacing life and property for miles around.

Nobody wants to be an alarmist, but it is foolhardy to ignore danger and do nothing. Consequently closing of forests and calling CCC men for 24-hour guard duty are advisable and necessary.

A major problem is: What can be done with the millions of feet of timber that will have to be removed from woodlands?

A sensible and practical solution would be: Use it for the construction of homes; replace dwellings that have long since passed their usefulness.

The Human Side of the News

More Power For Hitler?

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

AT THIS WRITING, it is no doubt whether Hitler will get his coveted control of the great Skoda armament works at Pilsen, Czechoslovakia.

News of the status of the weirdly complicated ownership of the plant is meagre, but there are persistent reports that the firm has been still further "internationalized," and that Germany will be a preferred customer for tanks, rolling stock, armored cars, and the new machine guns on which the Czechs placed much reliance when they expected to fight.

It is said to have a range of about 7000 feet, shooting 680 shots a minute, operated by one man and weighing about 17 pounds. A former military engineer of my acquaintance, recently in Europe, told me other machine guns were toys compared to this one, unless it be the recently developed German S2-606, which is another quite hellish weapon.

THE SKODA WORKS, employing 38,000 men, was presumably controlled by the Schneider-Creusot Company of France. It has been working seven days a week, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, exporting $30,000,000 worth of arms annually, or 14.3 per cent of the world production.

It was in April, 1929, that the French Bank de L'Union Parisienne organized the European Industrial and Financial Union, a

GREAT SKODA MUNITION WORKS
As Vast Plant Would Look to Bomber

but mysterious in its take-off but soon revealed as out to get control of various Central European munitions outfits, including Skoda.

Heading the enterprise was the historic Schneider-Creusot Company, back and forth across various European boundaries for many decades, dealing killing tools to all owners.

Ordinarily, among the munitions-makers, there is a flow of fraternal good will and understanding, and of good business, as unhindered as the free flux of their own blast furnaces. But in these post-war years there was competition which really did cross boundary lines.

Schneider-Creusot and their ally, De Wendel, were deep in the Continental Steel Cartel, and, within the general framework of this cartel, the Comite des Forges rallied a group of munitioneers to take on the great German Thyssen and Krupp outfits for a sure-enough rock-and-sock battle. Usually the fix was in these encounters but this was a fight.

But out of it all it is fairly clear that the great German steelmonger, Thyssen, was licked by the European cartel.

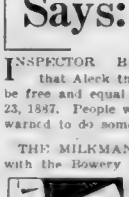
BUT here's an interesting twist: In 1928, Thyssen had rallied the steel kings of the Ruhr, bankrolled Hitler and put him over. But after Hitler gained power, smacking down possible competitors, he eased Thyssen out and Thyssen went to Brazil. And with Thyssen gone, evidence began to show that Hitler had been more or less "declared in" by the cartel. The politicians were several years behind in rigging their four-power pact. The arms-dealers already had theirs.

So, with the smoke clearing away, Hitler had two Germans on the Skoda board. Possibly much of this history will never be written, so deep, dark and devious are these offstage deals. And isn't it all a grand squirrel cage to keep out of!

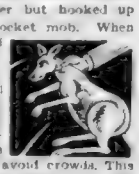
'Bugs' Baer Says:

INSPECTOR BYRNES notes that Aleck the Milkman will be free and equal again on April 23, 1887. People with pockets are warned to do something about it.

THE MILKMAN is hooked up with the Bowery mob as a stall although he is a clever wire. The Inspector calculates the meaning of care for those sheltered ones who have never rubbed elbows with the submerged tenth. It is gutter patois for the miscreant who actually picks the pocket. The Milkman is short, stout and his picture resembles him even though his eyes are closed.



AT ONE TIME The Milkman was a connecker but hooked up with the pickpocket mob. When he is around even a kangeroo rat safe-life will steal whiskers off the barber shop floor. The Inspector warns one and all to avoid crowds. This mob is especially addicted to hoss cars. When the car hurtles around a dangerous curve that is when the mob lurches and takes advantage of the consternation. The New York hoss cars have the speed of the wind.



THE INSPECTOR wishes to inform his well wishers that he has entirely recovered from his recent indisposition and will be at his desk again this coming week.

The Brighter Side

Home Town Dishes For World's Fair

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright 1938 by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

NEW YORK'S WORLD FAIR is to have a home town restaurant where you will be able to get the food specialties of your old home town.

We rather fancy this idea, and intend placing an early order with Mr. Grover Whalen, the boss of the fair, for the one specialty that we remember of our old home town of Pueblo.

This is a steak that we called round steak, hammered thin and tender and fried in a pan, with a nice thick cream gravy and hot biscuits to come along, with maybe a little lettuce wilted under hot bacon grease on the side. Probably there were other culinary specialties of our own home town, but they never left the same impression on our mind that the round steak did.

For years we have tried without success to school restaurant chefs and house cooks in the preparation of this delicacy.

PROBABLY every fellow recalls the superiority of a home town dish when he tries to get it somewhere else. All famous American regional dishes are now attempted all over the country, but we have heard Philadelphians complain that the Philadelphia pepper pot that is served them in other cities tastes nothing like that of Quakertown.

A Bostonian will tell you that the Boston baked bean he gets outside New England is distinctly the bunk and that it has none of the savour of the genuine home town article. A fellow from New Orleans will wag his head sadly over the Shrimps Creole or the Oysters Rockefeller that are dished up to him anywhere but in the Crescent City, though mark you, the chefs everywhere probably follow the original recipe.

Possibly it is a matter of environment, and that is what may militate to some extent against Mr. Whalen's hometown restaurant. Possibly if you carted a load of cooked sand dabs away from San Francisco and ate them in Poughkeepsie they would not taste the same as if you surrounded them in a restaurant in the sand dabs' old home town.

We know we have tried it with the celebrated stone crab of Miami. We have had those stoners brought up to New York and cooked after the Dade County formula, but they never have the same zing that they do in Jerry Gabati's restaurant in Miami.

NEW YORK has more different kinds of restaurants and more different kinds of cooking than any other city in the country, but we would say that the New Yorker's characteristic dish is steak.

We would not give you a nickel for a steak cooked the way the average New Yorker likes it. We want our steak well done, if at all, but ordering it that way in New York is tantamount to insulting a chef.

We associate almost every town we have ever been in with something to eat, not that we claim to be a gourmet but we just naturally love to put on that old feed bag. However, there are a lot of towns we have not been in and we wish our omniverous readers would write in telling us about their local dishes. We might find something to eat and that would sure interest us.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I DON'T KNOW what we can do about it nor even what we ought to do about it but it seems to me dreadful that our children should grow up without any spiritual instruction.

Mind you, I'm not saying "religious instruction" for it's plain that any effort to provide such courses in our public schools would start endless, bitter controversy.

But it's appalling that youngsters should be allowed to grow from infancy to maturity without some sort of daily contact with the things of the spirit—some daily glimpse of those shining visions which have lifted men above the beasts.

Things weren't any better a generation ago, as far as the schools went. But the whole atmosphere of life was different. There was a sort of social conscience then—a general attitude about honesty and courage, purity and tenderness, that no child could escape.

Of course, most of us went to Sunday School. Sunday school took the place of all sorts of modern diversion—movies and radio-listening. It was our social as well as our religious center. But I doubt if, in the long run, it was any more instrumental in civilizing us youngsters than the general social attitude.

I'M ALWAYS amazed when I read those explosive denunciations of youthful criminals. What else can we expect? We're trained them since they were babies to fling men in a purely materialistic world. We've advocated shrewdness, power concentrated men and women who "made good."

And to the simple mind of the average immature child, what can "making good" possibly mean but having lots of money, as pictured in the movies? I expect most of us be surprised when that child puts on a preaching suit, prunes its halo and starts to "set up the law."

Or the cops. We're horrified when a girl goes wrong. But attend any movie house for one month and try to imagine yourself into the mind of 12-year-old Bessie creeping away from the cluttered sordidness of some modern apartment to dream of Prince Charming.

What answer does the modern film give to that young dream?

Who lives in those glamorous penthouses. Those enchanting villas, and how do they contrive to live there?

THE STORY OF JESUS—a child growing up and never knowing of His friendliness, how brave He was, how kind to little children. Never knowing Him! Even the thought of it fills me with a sense of loss. Not religious at all. But a terrible lack, like never having had a friend or a dog. Or never seeing the mountains or the sea.

Yet there are thousands of youngsters under 'teen' like that. It's exciting to think we can help our own boys know Him.

All these amazing new departments of education and those floods and floods of scientific imagination BUT NEVER A WORD in all the day of that lovely, mysterious world of the spirit which lies like a shining sheath around the small dark kernal of our materialism.

THEN WE WONDER WHY THEY'RE LITTLE BARBARIANS THESE BABIES OF OURS—CHARMING, INTELLIGENT BUT SPIRITUALLY BLIND, DEAF AND DUMB!

"SEEING FINGERS" REVIEW THE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Albert Chub, sightless, reads Braille News Weekly to Elsie Biglen, secretary to Frances B. Israels

Girl About Town

by Mary X. Sullivan

THE PATRONS of the South Station Theater during the next few days will see a remarkable film called "The Seeing Fingers." It depicts the work of the National Braille Publishing Company.

It will be news to many that books and magazines for the blind to be "read" by sensitive fingertips, are made in South Boston in the Industrial building of the Perkins Institution for the Blind.

With a staff composed almost entirely of sightless men and women a weekly news magazine and monthly woman's magazine are printed. The news weekly is similar to the type of news digests which we fortunate ones read with our eyes. It is sent out to 32 countries each week.

The housekeepers' periodical has recipes, interior decoration, topical articles, all reproduced from leading magazines of its kind. More than 1000 blind women will eagerly read every page.

The film which was given over the week is a splendid lesson in courage and humanity. Much of the credit for the picture is heard presented of the National Braille Publishing Company.

Totally blind Mr. Israels has accomplished a great deal and has created one aim to relieve his sightless fellows. He is proud of the script and supervised the making of "The Seeing Fingers."

Boston may well be proud of the fine work it is completely a local product. I was made by the Master Motion Picture Company of Tremont street, and Ned Wallace gives commentary on WEEI, handled the dialogue.

New York Cavalcade

by Louis Sobol

TWO UNUSUAL BOOKS arrived today. One which will not reach the market until the third week in October is a song fairy saga entitled "Rosing Gets a Wife." The author with no apparent concern has set aside hundred men in one chapter alone and in the one volume is killed twice and quite permanently. The author is David Stuller who writes out from Memphis Tenn. and, according to the publishers has just recovered from the measles.

THE OTHER BOOK is "And Seven Wooden Gods" an intimate history of a group of humble Negro folks. I call it unusual because it has been written by a talented young Negress whose only previous claim to attention was in the role of the wife of Moses in Marc Connelly's Green Pastures and also as the mother in "Mulatto." Her name is Marcedes Gilbert, she dwells in Harlem and she is one of the most promising writers the colored race has developed in recent years.

Queen Elizabeth Escapes Injury as Beam Falls

DUNDEE, Scotland, Oct. 14 (INS)—Queen Elizabeth narrowly escaped serious injury or worse today when a heavy beam of wood became dislodged while she was visiting the Lord Roberts Memorial Workshops here and fell within three feet of her.

Members of the royal entourage were appalled when the heavy piece of wood toppled from the ceiling and crashed at her feet.

Her Majesty at first was startled but afterwards made light of the incident and chided those who felt otherwise. Authorities were convinced the entire affair was an accident.

World Peace Parley Belgian King's Plan

LONDON, Oct. 14 (INS)—The London Daily Sketch reported from Brussels today that Leopold, King of the Belgians, may suggest a world peace conference at the Belgian capital.

Other dispatches from Brussels indicated a conference which would include Soviet Russia, may be called to settle difficulties between Europe's democratic and totalitarian nations.

Secret Bridal Couple Greeted

Selectman Kenneth W. Ulman of Swampscott and Mrs. Ulman today received marriage congratulations from their friends, although their wedding took place January 15 in York, Me.

Mrs. Ulman is the former Claire Helen Morris of Salem, telephone operator in that city's exchange. The couple's marriage secret was revealed when residents discovered them furnishing a new home in Norfolk avenue, Swampscott.

Prince, Pauper Pay Last Honor To Dead 'Czar'

PARIS, Oct. 14 (AP)—Russian workmen in threadbare clothes rubbed shoulders with bearded generals in tailed czarist uniforms today at funeral services for the Grand Duke Cyril Vladimirovitch, self-styled czar of all the Russias. He died Wednesday at the age of 62.

Three thousand White Russian emigres, representing the aristocracy as well as the peasantry of the old imperial regime, crowded the Russian Orthodox church on the outskirts of Paris to pay last respects to the late head of the House of Romanoff and pretender to the vanished Russian throne.

Thirty priests officiated at the service which was attended by Prince George of Greece, Princess Olga of Yugoslavia and the ministers of Rumania, Yugoslavia and Greece. Representatives of President Albert Lebrun and former Kaiser Wilhelm were present also.

The 14 ushers were members of prominent old Russian families who included a bartender in one of the Paris hotels and a taxi driver.

Segar, Creator Of Popeye, Dies In Prime at 43

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 14 (INS)—E. C. Segar, noted cartoonist known throughout the world for the cartoon character he created, "Popeye the Sailor," was dead at his home here today. He was 43.

Death was expected, as he had steadily declined following a relapse after he returned to his home from a hospital a week ago. Segar was in a coma during his last hours.

In failing health for almost a year, Mr. Segar underwent an operation for removal of his spleen last January.

The famous creator of the comic strip "Thimble Theater," which was

Heavy Squalls Sweep Florida as Gale Nears

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 14 (AP)—South Florida experienced rain and heavy squalls early today as a tropical disturbance of mad[illegible] continued its eastward course [illegible] the Gulf of Mexico.

The weather bureau said the storm was centered at 1 a. m. approximately 200 miles west southwest of Fort Myers, Fla. It was moving eastward about 14 miles per hour, accompanied by winds and squalls of 35 to 45 miles per hour.

Storm warnings remained unfurled from Tarpon Springs southward, on the west coast, to Key West and south to Stuart on the east coast.

Forecasters predicted the disturbance would pass over South Florida.

They said the storm had no well-defined center and its strength was difficult to say at what point it would reach the coast.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

EXCLUSIVE: Mayor Tobin and former Governor Curley, Democratic nominee for governor, are about to embrace . . . The two have not been friendly, although each has assumed a poker face and a bland manner when the other's name has been a topic of discussion . . . No one knows more authentically that the city of Boston has been the victim of the state's unrepresentative financial set-up than Nominee Curley . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Boston contributes more in taxes - much more—than is its proportionate due to the upkeep of the Commonwealth's obligations . Mayor Tobin will ask for a round $30,000,00 from funds which will accrue to the state under a plan former Governor Curley will propose (and put through) if he is elected . . . You will see the two riding through the cities and towns of the Commonwealth cheek to cheek before election day.

Once Over Lightly:

After his horse, Conrad Mann, won the fifth race at Narragansett (at the good odds of nearly 9-1), Bill Hartman, the California owner-trainer of the steed, collapsed with a heart attack . . . He was stretchered to the Memorial Hospital in Pawtucket . . . Sophie Tucker was encored to exhaustion at New Haven last night when she sang "Tomorrow," the best Cole Porter tune in the new "Leave It To Me," coming to the Shubert here next Monday . . . Sophie's song, "From the U. S. A. to the U. S. S. R." was also well received . . . In its debut the show resembled a hit . . .

Miss Tucker has arranged with her producer, Vinton Freedley, an able undergraduate actor when he attended Harvard back in 1917, to appear at the Benny Goodman-Rudy Vallee jubilee at the Boston Garden a week from next Monday . . . This distance in advance, the Goodman-Vallee-Jitterbug-Jamboree looms as a solid sellout . . . The proceeds of the show, and it will be probably the greatest mass-appeal show in several years, will go to this paper's Christmas Basket Fund . . .

The Boston Theatrical Treasurers Club met last night to take a poll as to the disposition of some $5000 remaining in the club's treasury . . . The verdict of the executive committee will not be announced until tomorrow but the probability is that the thirty odd members will share alike in distribution of the surplus . . .

Ted Husing, the radio announcer, and Billy Dolan, his assistant, arrived in town two days in advance of their broadcast of the Harvard Army game . . . Husing is a swing addict . . .

Among his memories he will remain the night and hearing at Benny Goodman leading the 130 piece Minnesota band in the "Minnesota Song" the day the Minnesota eleven whipped Nebraska two weeks ago . . . His personal nomination for the two most appealing personalities in Hollywood are the late Jean Harlow and Bill Powell . . . He thinks that a colored swimmer named Lenny Harris is the tops . . .

He was so impressed with the trombone playing of Charles Wick, who also sings and acts as master of ceremonies at the Mayfair, that the radio announcer requested Manager Benny Ginsberg to request a solo by Wick . . . Husing and everyone else applauded and the solo will be made part of the Mayfair's routine . . .

The note in yesterday's column which described Meta Carlyle, of the Latin Quarter, as "mildly gorgeous" must have been misprinted . . . so many were the requests for interpretation . . . Accordingly, the description is changed to "simply gorgeous" . . .

Margie Carney, the pretty girl from Charlestown with a nightclub background, likes Boston so much that she refused an offer to go to the Hollywood district under the aegis of Busby Berkley, formerly of Somerville, and now a grade A director . . .

Young Happy (Moses Rubinowitz whose journalistic nom de plume is H. Parkman Robinson) made the midtown sector's regulars jovial last night by buying drinks for one and all. When the number 266 came up, Young Happy's $2.50 daily wager returned him $1500 . . . But he "springs," or spends . . .

Narragansett's all-time low receipts—a "handle" of less than $200,000 yesterday—was featured by another extraordinary happening . . . Jack LeTendre, one of the track's directors, found himself embarrassed when the Rhode Island Racing Commission refused the entry of Mansco, a horse entered in the name of Mrs. D. I. LeTendre . . . The stewards of the track found themselves in the embarrassing position of telling one of their chief bosses the news of the ruling . . . There is a regulation which forbids running of horses owned by persons directly connected with the track . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bayly of Wellesley were at the Mayfair with Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Koerner . . . Mr. Bayly, and his missus, too, were raving about "Suez," and it was natural that they should . . . He represents 20th Century-Fox pictures in New England, and "Suez" is their super super special of the Fall season . . .

The most expensive newspaper advertising campaign yet to be conducted for an Eagle and Better Motion Pictures film will launch "Suez" . . . Which, believe it or not, had nothing to do with getting the name of Mr. Bayly in the column . . . He is an old and affable gentleman

Hicks' 'Red' Book List Under Fire

V. I. Lenin.

"Foundations of Leninism," by Joseph Stalin. (Present Soviet dictator.)

"The Coming Struggle for Power," by John Strachey.

"Theory and Practice of Socialism," by John Strachey.

"The People's Front," by Earl Browder. (U. S. Communist leader.)

"Selected Works of Lenin, Ten Volumes."

Also listed were a dozen similar books by other authors, all preachers of Marxism and the "social revolution."

Educators — outside Harvard — and civic and patriotic organizations throughout Massachusetts joined today in characterizing the "Hicks list" of recommended reading as 'Communism's Two-Foot Shelf.'

"If Lenin, Stalin, Marx, Browder and Strachey are the writers Hicks approves as political, economic and historical authorities, he is a strange young man for Harvard to appoint to advise undergraduates," one Boston educator commented.

"It is strange that Harvard should take refuge in the claim that Hicks is an 'unofficial' tutor and adviser," he said.

"As a matter of fact, Hicks holds a financially remunerative Harvard fellowship and is definitely charged with the duty of assisting and guiding Harvard students in their extra-curricular reading in American history.

ADVISES STUDENTS

"In other words, it's Hicks' job to outline and interpret American history for undergraduate readers who have him as their officially appointed mentor.

"Those fireside conferences at which Hicks presides, with Harvard's blessing, in his cosy Adams House study, are made to order for the propagation of his Communist doctrines."

Official Harvard continued to maintain silence today concerning Hicks' status at the university.

From administrative offices of the college came an "off the record" statement of views of Harvard's executive heads.

Said an unofficial spokesman:

"University authorities feel the matter of Hicks' Communist beliefs was sufficiently discussed last April, when his appointment was announced.

"It is still the attitude of the university that Mr. Hicks' private political views and his activities, outside the college, are his personal concern and are not subject to disciplinary action."

Less complaisant were patriotic and veterans [illegible] various spokesmen [illegible] Representative Thomas [illegible] came forward today.

Nelson Eddy to Star Alone in Western Epic

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

(Copyright, 1938, by International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Every time I've even hinted that the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy team would be broken up I've felt like taking to the storm cellar at the broadsides from the fans that followed.

But try as M-G-M will, it isn't possible always to find a story which will give both singing stars an equal chance and so much as it pains me to tell you Nelson is on his own in the next "Let Freedom Ring."

Louella O. Parsons

Before divulging I'd like to add that it is one of those outdoor pictures based on the battle between the pioneer farmers of the West and the railroad people for the right of way. In casting, Nelson will do all the singing with [illegible] since M-G-M doesn't care announce another singing partner to take Jeanette's place, that how rabid their fans are about this team.

Girls! Here's the Way To Get Your Man!

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 14 (INS)—Dropping a handkerchief seemed the best way to pick up men, decided 10 University of California co-eds as they completed a week's intensive course on "How to Get Your Man."

"Interested" appearance women passed on their art of wiles to their sister stars.

University "mixed" dances were voted the best places to meet "interesting and presentable" men. Coeds were instructed to "smile as though enraptured by the music, and sigh a yearning to dance."

The method was said to be "practically infallible." "A discreetly flirtatious glance may be necessary to produce the desired reaction."

"Don't drop your pencil or handkerchief," the committee summarized. "Such actions make a man think you clumsy. Ask him the time, borrow a piece of paper. If you ask to see his notes, sigh helplessly and murmur 'I wish I had a brain.' That will make him feel pleasantly superior."

To appear a "thought conversationalist," coeds are told not to bum the most interesting subject himself."

Coeds were told to beware of blind dates as "too many turn into wrestling matches."

Men like to think themselves the pursuers, but must need use of encouragement.

Co-ed opinion was that the co-ed was a better [illegible] ... and [illegible]

Town Manager Gets Job Back

William C. Kendrick was back on the job today as Norwood's town manager, completely vindicated by the recall election which swept the three selectmen who opposed him out of office.

In the first meeting of the newly elected board, Kendrick was ordered reinstated from the post the three now defeated selectmen dismissed him. The vote was unanimous.

The new board also elected Charles E. Houghton as its chairman to succeed Shute Dolan, former chairman, whom Houghton defeated in the recent election.

$100 Watch 1st Prize in New Caption Test

Thirty-eight prizes with a major award of a [illegible] valued at $100 will be distributed as a result of the Boston Evening American's new contest.

Here's how you can win one of the prizes: Submit a suitable caption to the accompanying picture. It is a scene of the recent M-G-M production, "Too Hot to Handle," starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy now playing at Loew's State and Orpheum Theatres.

Write as many captions as you wish on one side of the paper, 50 words or less. The first photograph appeared in yesterday's American. Three more will be published this week, one appearing on each Tuesday.

Mail the five best captions to the "Thrill Caption" contest editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

No entry will be accepted bearing a postmark later than Wednesday midnight, October 19.

The contest is sponsored jointly by the Boston Evening American, Loew's theatres and the Gruen Watch Company in connection with the picture "Too Hot to Handle," an exciting story of daring newsreel men who risk death daily to bring events of the world to the screen.

Following are the prizes: First award, 14-karat gold 17-jewel curved side-wind wrist watch valued at $100, duplicate of one worn by Clark Gable in picture; second prize Gruen watch, 15-jewels gold filled, costing $50; third $25 in cash; fourth $15; fifth and sixth each $5; seventh $3; and eighth and ninth each $2.

The next five will each receive $1, while the next 25 and each receive a pair of free theatre tickets for Loew's State or Orpheum Theatre.

Regal Red-Purple Tone Newest Make-up Thrill

BRUNETTES will blossom in the new make-up Arline Gould describes . . . particularly fair brunettes like Ann Miller. And blondes will find in it new heightening of color depth in eyes and lips.

BY ARLINE GOULD

IF THE FRANKLY purple tones of this autumn's make-up thrill you not at all, and give you no heady lift of complexion and eyes when you wear them, look at the very newest addition to the glowing order of cosmetics fit to wear with the royal purples and crimsons. It's called "Prince's Feather."

We understand that it's been inspired by the gallant dark red flower known as cockscomb with the more ancient and more charming Tudor name of Prince's Feather.

It is decidedly a young color, daring and gallant, a startling, glowing red with suave purply undertones. And quite unlike the other high fashion tones it doesn't just come in one shade. There are three intensities of it, so you may have a light lipstick if that's what you crave, or a very dark one or the smart in between.

A tone triumph when worn with plum, mauve, fuchsia or certain deep Victorian greens . . . it also strikes a new, vibrant note with grey, yellow or pumpkin. And it's said to be the most enchanting of all with black.

You needn't worry about a loss of effectiveness under yellow evening lights. It keeps a regal red in spite of the most tint-deadening amber glow.

You may buy individual items in this new make-up, or a perfectly set up color harmony box complete to the right eye shadow!

For all further information phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000 week days until five, or write her at the Boston American inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Janet Pierce Wears Mitts At Tea Dance Debut

By BETTY ALDEN

THE RETURN to popularity of hoop skirts and pagodines has also caused a revival of [illegible] fingerless gloves which were a fashion feature in grandmother's day . . . Janet Pierce is helping to prove that [illegible] fashions, as well as other things, make her curtsy to society this [illegible] at a tea dance in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walworth Pierce . . .

Janet looked pretty and just the right quaint [illegible] in a white lace gown of white lace [illegible] satin . . . Fashion Show at Ritz

EVERYTIME A FASHION SHOW is held in the Ritz-Carlton dining-room, an elevator [illegible] is just as important a part of the affair as the [illegible] models . . . Because space is limited, the [illegible] change from one costume to another on the floor above the dining room and have a special elevator to shuttle them up and down . . . The newspaper photographers gather round the [illegible] to shoot the girls as they step out and often get the [illegible] operator into the picture . . . We wonder if members of the hotel staff draw lots to see which one is to enjoy his hour in the sun . . . or more correctly, in the dazzling glare of flash bulbs . . .

Even if his countenance had not been recorded for posterity the elevator operator's job was an enviable one yesterday for he seldom has the opportunity to pilot a more atractive and brilliantly-gowned group of girls than the debs who modelled in the fashion show to benefit the Red Cross . . . Hope Halsey, Gail Neilson, Esmee deMonval, Martha Pervere and Nancy Bertelsen among them . . .

The dining room was packed to overflowing with socialites combining a bit of charity with luncheon and fashions . . . Mrs. John Saltonstall and Mrs. Richard Thorndike were together, and nearby were Mrs. Nathaniel Hamlen, Mrs. Dunbar Lockwood, Mrs. Gard Porter, Mrs. Constantine Hutchins, Mrs. William G. Nickerson, Mrs. [illegible] Jr. and many other others . . .

Philomatheia Style Show Tonight

Buffet Supper For Executives

BEFORE the Junior Philomatheia's annual officers' bridge and fashion show gets under way this evening at the clubhouse, the executive board will be entertained at a buffet supper.

A parade of fall fashions and a lavish show of stylish furs are scheduled. Among those who will entertain at tonight's affair are Mary Fannon, Arnette Callan, Mary and Mabel Coogan, Claire McCarthy, Dorothy Bevan, Elsie Brady, Ann Lorraine Butler and Elizabeth and Ruth McGarry.

Other reservations have been made by Ada Richardson, Anne Flynn, Helen Hayes, Dorothy Hooker, Helen Fanning, Madeline Bradley, Ruth Dorothy Dakin, Anne Kelley, Nathalie Legg, Winifred Kerney and Catherine Regina O'Brien.

Margaret Learson heads the list of country club models who will parade fashions at tonight's show. Others will be Marjorie Sullivan, Marion Grady, Dorothy Grimes, Celeste Callaghan, Elaine Devan, Dorothy Lannon, Phyllis Cunningham, Angela Albre and Mary Snyder.

BERMUDA GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hilyard of Summit, N. J., are sojourning at Glencoe, Bermuda, together with Mrs. Parker Potter of Boston.

Proparvulis Girls to Usher

An attractive group of club girls will serve as ushers at the Proparvulis Club fashion show and bridge tomorrow afternoon in the Parker House roof ballroom.

Among them will be Claire Tomasello, Agnes Dole, Ruth Ward, Frances Glynn, Susan Hutchins, Helen Owens, Helen Prior, Sally Barrett and Marie Geary. Katherine Forbes is in charge of the group.

One of the club's most ambitious workers is Marguerite Gearin, who has made dainty nut baskets and planned the tallies for the benefit party.

Marguerite Barry of Newton heads the group of girls soliciting chances. Among them are Dorothy Kudoke, Ann Deneby, Ann Black, Mildred Cotter, Eleanor Sheerin, Marie Wall, Leona Kelleher, Jane Lynch, Louise Ryan, Geraldine Guthrie, Mary Lordan, Marie Dean, Betty Donovan, Ann Chisholm and Marion Gaffney.

Pot Roast Delicious, Also Economical

By MARTHA LEE

One of the most frequently heard complaints from young housekeepers is their inability to make a pot roast like their mothers used to turn out—one of those richly brown, melting tender pot roasts that had whole brown potatoes and the most luscious brown gravy to go along with it.

We think we've found the answer. It is because they don't let the pot roast cook long enough. They don't cook it slowly enough. And they don't sear it enough at the beginning.

Never try to cook the last tough cut of beef, the cheapest cut, in a hurry. Set it to cook early in the day, or the night before. Allow at least 3 hours for a 3 to 4 pound piece of beef. And remember that the slow cooking with an occasional turning of the meat will give you the result you want.

Although all pot roasts (or pot roasts) are cooked in the same way, they vary

Murphy Threatens Defense Attorney

What Has Happened:

Addison Francis Murphy, enterprising reporter, undertakes to solve the mystery of the slaying of Dolores Vanini, beautiful movie queen. He hires Quentin Robbins, young private detective, to help in the investigation and execution. Miss Phyllis May, Robbins' secretary, promises to help. Charlton Beatty, defense attorney, refuses assistance.

Murphy learns that a mystery man occupied the apartment directly above that of the murdered girl's. Following the clue, Murphy questions Beatty for underworld connections, as Miss May agrees to date them. When he refuses, his life is threatened by hoodlums.

In this chapter, Murphy proceeds to carry out his plan to trap the murderer.

CHAPTER FIVE

(All names, characters and addresses in this story are fictitious. No reference to actual persons or places is intended.)

It took Murphy only a few minutes to find the number of Phyllis May's home in the telephone book. He dialed it and asked for her. In a moment she was on the wire.

"Mr. Murphy," she exclaimed in low guarded tones, "have you news for me?"

"I am positive your boy friend is innocent," he declared, "and I think I know the man who did it. You stop worrying, leave everything to me and get a good night's sleep."

"You—you're marvelous," she breathed. "Can't I see you and talk things over. I'm so excited!"

"Want to have lunch with me tomorrow?"

"I do. Of course I do."

He hesitated. "We can't be seen together. Come down to Hanover street. The food's good and nobody will spot us there. Good-by."

His next call was the residence of Attorney Beatty. The answer was not at home but could be reached at the Harvard Club. Mr. Beatty was pleased to be haughty when interrupted at his club so Murphy talked fast and to the point.

"I'm going to make you famous," he declared, to snap out of it. Tomorrow morning I want you to see your client and tell him that he has to have a talk with me."

"I told you he would see nobody," replied the lawyer icily.

"Explain to him that I have found out about Miss May and that I'll publish in The Sphere that she is engaged to him, and accompanied with a four-column picture of her, if he doesn't agree to see me."

"You wouldn't do that!" protested the horrified lawyer.

BRADY CHANGES MIND

"In a moment I'll do it. That guy Brady—if I don't save him, and you and he must play ball with me. Tell him I will offer five grand to any charity he names today and produce."

"Who's offering such a sum?"

"That's my business. You get Brady on the line and have him when you see him. Understand? Well you arrange that interview for me."

Mr. Murphy replied the lawyer in a very different tone. "Really I would be pleased to have you call at my office at your convenience. Make it this afternoon at four o'clock."

Murphy hung up, grinning with satisfaction and found that he had time to witness the matinee show at a theater in Charlestown. It was a light comedy and very relaxing. After that he went to bed and slept soundly because he knew that nobody in Boston was apt to intrude upon his slumbers. It had been a very full day.

The reporter was sitting across from Phyllis May in the Hanover street place. "You are a strange man, Mr. Murphy," declared the girl. "You admit being penniless but you refuse $5000 and you don't seem concerned because these wretches are determined to kill you. And you are risking your life for a man you don't know. Why?"

"Answering your questions in order," he said with a broad smile, "I am a person of very simple tastes and owning more than $50 at one time would bewilder me. I am not worried about these thugs because I know how to take care of myself, and I'm staying on the job because I promised Tom Gorman a good murder story and because, if you like this egg, there must be something to him."

"LIKE DON QUIXOTE"

She reached across the table and touched his hand in an impulsive gesture. "You're like Don Quixote," she declared. "You're a most romantic person!"

"I'm a wanderer, but I have a lot of fun. It was nice of you to meet me. It was mostly for your sake. If this Slick finds you're interested, he is capable of blackmail.

"I have no money of my own," she said with a smile "and I don't care who knows I am in love with Quentin and want him set free."

"You're quite a girl. Just remember a line to the boy friend that you have confidence in me and expect him to confide in me. I'm going to need it."

"DON'T LOOK NOW!" Reporter Murphy instructs Miss Phyllis May, "In a minute I want you to size up a man three tables to your left. See if you know him." In the picture, Frank C. McLean, Boston Evening American police reporter, poses as Reporter Murphy; Miss Mae Iwins, as Phyllis May.

"I'll do it now." She took a pencil from her purse, and wrote rapidly upon the back of an old envelope.

"I'm depending on Robbins to tip me to the identity of Smith," he told her. "I might spend a week trying to run him down and your fiance might put me wise in a minute. I think he knows Smith. He might have caught Miss Vanini coming back from the other apartment on the surfboard."

"But you told me that the superintendent said he never went to see the woman. I was so glad to hear that."

"We know he visited her one night and he might have called on her before—on some business of course," he added because the girl looked distressed.

"Tell him not to think about me; that you're going to publish our engagement anyway. His life is at stake. Make him understand it."

MISS MAY AGREES

"I'll try. I have a feeling that there are other reasons for his refusal to make any explanation. Don't look now—say something. In a minute I want you to size up a man three tables to your left. See if you know him."

She laughed airily—a good actress, he thought—and presently glanced in the direction indicated. She saw a well-dressed blond man with a small blond mustache. He had a cup of coffee before him, a cigar between his fingers and was gazing toward the opposite side of the cafe.

"I never saw him before," she said in a low tone.

He came in directly behind you. He has been sitting where he could watch us, and he's been on the job every second since we began our lunch. Of course he may be interested in you as a beautiful girl, but I can read faces pretty well and I think it is our meeting which interests him most."

"What can we do about it?"

"Nothing. I expect he will trail me when we leave. Did you tell anybody about me? Does anybody know you were coming down here to meet me?"

"No-o, well—yes."

"Who?"

"WHO IS SHE?"

"The girl who introduced me to Quentin. The only person who knows of our engagement. Her name is Gloria Knowlton. I was so excited I couldn't keep things entirely to myself."

"Who is she? School friend?"

"No. She's my manicure. You see—well, Quentin was having his nails manicured one day and she introduced him to me. She only knew him as a customer, but naturally she was pleased that we fell in love and she hopes he won't be convicted."

"So it wasn't at a party that you met?"

"Well, I didn't know you as well yesterday as I do today," she answered shyly.

"Inasmuch as I haven't told anybody of our lunch date, if that is a spy over there, why you can thank Gloria for it. Will you promise me to supply her with no information whatever in the future?"

"I can't believe that Gloria—well, I promise," she said with heightened color.

"You leave now. I think he's going to trail me."

"But I haven't finished my coffee," she protested. "And I am enjoying our party."

"Finish your coffee. This is strictly business with me, Miss May."

She frowned and then laughed. "You are such an extraordinary young man," she remarked.

"I am middle-aged and battered," he said significantly.

"But not very middle-aged or much battered."

"Good afternoon, Miss May."

She beamed upon him. "You'll keep me informed?"

"And you'll keep your promise. Stay away from this manicure."

He rose and the girl shook hands and departed. The Rambler gazed after her admiringly. "Darn pretty kid," he said to himself. "Now I wonder if she was trying to flirt with me. Guess not."

He ordered another pot of coffee, observing that the blond man made no effort to follow Miss May. After a cigarette, he paid his check, rose and, as he left the cafe, he noticed that the stranger was also departing. The restaurant was on the second floor of an old building and reached by a narrow staircase with a thick but musty carpet on it.

As Murphy reached the foot of the stairs, the man was halfway down. When the reporter opened the front door and closed it behind him, he saw through the glass that the fellow was striding across the narrow hallway. He noted a tax at the curb.

Economist Says Business Needs Free Rein

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

(Special to Boston Evening American)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—It is sometimes charged that economists do not tell us what to do about the present economic evils. This, however, can hardly be said of Dr. H. G. Moulton, well known economist and head of the Brookings Institution.

In his various researches he has gained much insight into the existing economic situation. He does not hesitate to state what is needed to cure us.

In a recent address, he makes the following analysis of conditions, and points to the remedy.

First he points out that control of the economic life of the nation has passed out of private hands. It has been taken by the government.

Then he is impressed by the fact that the representatives of the present administration are continually telling us that "if business won't, we will."

The attitude on the part of leading government officials is doubly bad. It first conveys the impression that business could use loans and that private employers could give employment, if only they wanted to do so. Then it threatens them with extinction by government competition if they don't make the loans here the men, etc.

But this is only one of the means used to intimidate and control business. In addition, the government makes grants and subsidies to buy control, notably in case of farmers and public utilities.

The point to be stressed is that under present economic conditions, no one is warranted in making ordinary commercial loans, and no one can afford to employ more laborers.

What are these conditions? Among the more important is the constant tendency of the federal government to go into business.

Then there are uncertainty as to money, unduly burdensome restrictions on the marketing of securities, collusion with radical labor organizers, unfair taxes, and ruinous spending.

The results are plain. We have had, as in 1937, almost no commercial bank loans, a turnover of bank deposits that is almost zero, a dead market for new security issues, and over ten million unemployed laborers.

What, then, is the remedy? Obviously it is to restore conditions which will make banks desire to lend money, and employers desire to hire labor. The two go together.

Copper Trade Shows Gains

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Financial Editor

The copper trade, popularly supposed to be heavily dependent on armament, is making steady progress on orthodox recovery developments and the end is not in sight, according to those close to the situation.

On the basis of sales during the past three months we are told that a substantial increase in fourth quarter shipments is to be expected.

And if any void does follow the cessation of war frightened Europe it should be filled nicely by a renewed demand from utilities. There is a growing feeling that the administration is softening its attitude and will encourage plant expansion and rehabilitation.

Earnings estimates for the full year we here, are very good; in fact, better than for most industries.

On a per share basis it is said that Kennecott will show $2.20 while Anaconda will approximate $1.60 and Phelps Dodge will report about $2.

If demand strengthens still more and export sales hold additions to the increases are in prospect, and the estimates given will have to be raised. However, due to the short time before the year end, figures should not be far out of line.

The rails literally roared their way to a new high closing yesterday and there is no longer the slightest doubt that a bull market signal has been given by the Dow theory. All dissenters have been convinced that the trend is higher and dips from here on will be used to accumulate stocks.

The height to which average prices will rise is a matter of some dispute but we think the industrials can probably tack on another 10-15 points while rails should add around 7.

But more important than the market itself is the "go ahead" signal given to business by the behavior of stock prices. Fundamentally, the Dow theory is a business forecasting device and it now bespeaks of added gains to come.

Austen Lake:

An Expert's Survey Of Saturday's Games

HARVARD-ARMY: Each West Pointer who comes to Cambridge tomorrow brings a duffle bag containing a skeleton list of articles for personal needs. He also has a suitcase containing his dress regimentals. Provided he has not overdrawn his meager allowance, he is permitted to draw up to $5 from the Academy treasury and will be given the interval between the end of the game and midnight to wander about Boston and spend his fun money on frivolity. But woe betide the student soldier who misses roll-call when noses are counted at midnight. Missing men don't get by with a simper and a blush when they appear before the adjutant. One guess for a scoreless tie.

AUSTEN LAKE

DARTMOUTH-BROWN: According to Emily Post, personal remarks during a formal dinner are in filthy taste. It is permissible for an elderly dame to welcome a younger wench, especially a debutante or bride, with, "What a swell hunk of gown. Ain't you the one now." But for a younger wren to say to an old girl, "La, Judy! You're all hips." That would be bad taste. One weak ballot for Dartmouth.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY-UPSALA: The name of the New Jersey college is a blend of two words, the Anglo-Saxon preposition "Up," denoting movement contrary to the laws of gravity, and the Turkish noun "Sala," meaning nozzle or spout. Hence up-the-spout. One lusty conjecture for B U.

Tar, Mollusks and McCarthy

YALE-NAVY: Tar, the diminutive term usually applied to sailors, is derived from a dry distillation of resin. The best varieties of tar are made from pine sap. A cord of pine wood will produce 40 gallons. The sap content of this Yale team is somewhat less, but a strong surprise for Navy to knock the tar out of the Elis.

HOLY CROSS-CARNEGIE TECH: The first purple was produced by the ancient Athenians from a rare Mediterranian mollusk, a drop at a time. As a dye, it was obtainable in such small quantities that only kings could afford its use. Thus the phrase "Imperial purple," the color still being associated with royalty. One hesitant guess for Holy Cross.

PRINCETON-PENN: George Munger, Penn coach, is the only millionaire coach in history. A young man, in the late twenties he wears a full Penn football uniform during games and is undistinguishable from his players, who are instructed to call him George. Shades of Bob Folwell. A hypothetical vote for Penn.

FORDHAM-PURDUE: The McCarthy Brothers, Bill and Ray, make a nice potful of cash each autumn by promoting college football games at Fenway Park, the Polo Grounds, Shibe Park and Yankee Stadium. They procure the colleges and the park owners pay them a percentage of their rental fee. They thought up the idea first and are growing gradually rich. Poo-poo for Purdue and a slight vote for Fordham.

Piccolino, Discredit, Regret

COLUMBIA-COLGATE: Forty-three years ago in Leominster, a son was born to an Italian family named Piccolino, meaning in English translation "very little." The boy grew up as Lou Little, one of the finest characters and coaches in the college game. A sentimental leaning toward Columbia.

CORNELL-SYRACUSE: Wilmeth Sidat-Singh, Syracuse backfield star, is a New York Negro youth adopted by a Hindu doctor. Southern colleges, before contracting games with Northern varsities, stipulate that no Negro player shall be permitted to play against their teams. To the great discredit of northern teams, this "gentlemen's agreement" is always observed. A strong vote for Cornell.

VILLANOVA-CENTRE: Said President James H. Hewlett of Centre recently, "Greatest disaster that ever happened to our college was when we beat Harvard in 1922. The resultant horde of new students caused us to mortgage our income way into the future to provide new buildings and equipment. Then, when the Centre teams began to drop back to the small college class, the students drifted away, and we were stuck with surplus facilities and the cost of financing them." A guess for Villanova.

Aurora, Adam, Proselytizing

ILLINOIS-NOTRE DAME: Airplaning from the Chicago end of the World Series one night last week there was a weird Aurora Borealis tinting the clear, moonlit sky, with fingers of reddish light wiggling upward. Science suspects that the aurora is caused by corpuscles emanating from the sun. It's all Greek to me. A vote for the Irish.

WILLIAMS-BOWDOIN—Adam Walsh, one of the original Notre Dame seven mules, has bought a house in the charming town of Brunswick, Me., where he is contentedly raising a young son in the finest New England atmosphere. Many another college is yoo-hooing for Adam to resurrect their football fortunes, but he prefers $5000 in contentment to $10,000 in contention. A guess for Bowdoin.

MICHIGAN-MINNESOTA—Following Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's policy of supporting farm prices by artificial means, he is buying the 300 millions of bushels of surplus wheat at standard U. S. prices and selling them abroad at a loss. This will help the wheat farmers and keep their sons in Minnesota U.—a clear case of proselytizing. (All right! Look it up in Webster.) A vote for old Minnie.

ARMY IN STADIUM

Harvard on Edge

By WILL CONNELL

Army's rapid-firing heavy grid tank was oiled today for a lethal spin into Harvard Stadium tomorrow.

A brisk hike over the Belmont golf meadows opened a busy day for the Cadets. A brisk Stadium workout this afternoon showed a powerful, smooth Cadet machine.

Meanwhile Dick Harlow staged a final light workout and cast before-the-battle-brother instructions for his Army Crimson for tomorrow.

And tens of thousands of Greater Boston fans made plans for forgetting a brief glimpse of the Cadet Corps 1000 strong parading from the Huntington avenue railroad yards tomorrow, and later, into the Stadium.

The customers will see a few brand new matchings. Intimations when the grey locks crisp's feet through a flawless pregame exhibition on the gridiron. West Point has varied its marching routine to bring new color to the ever attractive formations.

Beaten twice, by Brown and Cornell, Harvard is on the short end in this game, but thinks it can force the going with a spot of luck.

The team actually appeared more on edge and more confident today than before either Brown or Cornell tilts.

Harvard minus Chief Boston blocking back, is in a difficult position, since its slim group of competent performers for the loss of any star very keenly.

Tomorrow, cheerier souls feel, may display a Harvard impelled sufficiently to give Army an even game.

Frank Finn, Andy Harding, Tork Macdonald, Bill Smith, Mike Cohen, Hack Wilson, and the other Crimson backs are in if their condition of Harlow's stick attack can attain close harmony instead of discord, Army must fight.

The Harvard line will be cut weighed, but its expressiveness can make up for the difference. Captain Pat Green and Ted

Pitt in for It

Wisconsin Primed for Big Test

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 14 (INS)—For better than a month, Harry Stuhldreher and the Badger boys have been practicing for "Biggie" Goldberg and his Pittsburg pals. The Badger boys are in a great mood for tomorrow's task.

Everyone is in fine condition and spirits after rousing victories over Marquette and Iowa. "Biggie" had better look out for maybe he will be stepping on porcupines.

Ordinarily, Stuhldreher is a fellow who favors offensive football. But in the case of Pittsburgh, he rightly figures that a defense capable of stopping "Biggie" and Cassiano and Stebbing is a right hands offense.

So against Iowa the Badger boys went through all sorts of defensive maneuvers. They played in a seven, six and five-man line and used a 6-3-2 and 6-2-2-1 formation.

Stuhldreher is uncertain which setup will stop the Panthers, but all of them will be in working order and the Badgers will try everything.

U. S. MILITARY ACADEMY FOOTBALL WARRIORS TAKE BRISK MATUTINAL JOG AT BELMONT COUNTRY CLUB

Blaik Convinces Green Eleven

By BILL GRIMES

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 14—Judging from the serious countenances the varsity players are wearing today, Head Coach Earl Blaik has finally convinced his Indians of the North that the Brown Bear is going to be tough to bring down tomorrow afternoon at Memorial Field.

In their last three encounters with Brown Dartmouth piled up a total of 116 points. In all probability the freshman teams could have taken the Bruins into camp while [illegible] for the varsity scored a [illegible] a week.

But Brown has emerged from the [illegible] as the Big Green will discover if ever [illegible] with any comfort that the Bears will be a "breather."

Fortunately for the Big Green, Brown is not [illegible] replacements but Coach Tuss McLaughry has developed a fast, formidable team that will [illegible] Harvard and Lafayette [illegible] Naturally the Crimson and [illegible] won as [illegible] but they [illegible] and they [illegible] stopped both of [illegible] If so [illegible] would insure them of a [illegible] with Dartmouth has been belittling Brown as a gridiron rival. It seems to have lost track of the fact that of the 25 games played the Brunonians have been on the winning end of an even dozen and that one contest was a draw.

The Bears have played havoc with some of the best elevens that ever represented Dartmouth. Back in 1919 Jim Robertson's team went [illegible] remembers what happened. When the final whistle blew the Big Green had taken it on the chin, 7 to 6. In 1925 Brown tied the Big Green at Brown. That year Cap Rich's Navy Parker to, one of the greatest of all the Dartmouth teams. His 14 to 0 victory over Brown was due to a couple of lucky breaks.

Further afield than after the victory over Pennsylvania Coach Rick Ard has warned his boys that if [illegible] Big Green at [illegible] all week.

Army Drills in Stadium

Daughters, veteran wings, have a fair enough line between them, but if there are any injuries the possibilities are bleak.

West Point offers an all-veteran backfield of Captain Jim Schwenk, backer and spinner calling the [illegible] for Huey Long, Woody Wilson and Art Frontczak, and a [illegible] line.

The line was ragged starting the year, but after the seasoning against Cornell last week figures to do a sound job tomorrow.

Army won't have a soft time though even if it is going to win. Harvard [illegible] the Cadets for some years, but every [illegible] game has been a [illegible] affair. The [illegible] to [illegible] will get an [illegible] when Purdue [illegible] the game and the experts [illegible] a [illegible] of the Lafayette Cadets.

College Leaders Step Off Deep End

A list of national grid leaders knocked silly, and plenty of heavy scoring, is the possibility for tomorrow as colleges crash into top flight opponents.

Brown at Dartmouth, Purdue at Fordham, Holy Cross at Carnegie Tech, Navy at Yale, Penn at Princeton and Columbia at Colgate are among major events of the day with each favorite in real danger.

Holy Cross, after traveling to Pittsburgh to face Carnegie, may topple. The Skibos have been about the toughest foe for Lil Eddie Anderson's Crusaders this year, with a scoreless tie last year after losing close games with the Purple.

Holy Cross is now at full strength, and will need all its power and speed.

Navy strong and improving goes to Yale who is a good one favorite in front of them for modesty looks. But Yale stood [illegible] each week and in its own Bowl can upset Navy.

Brown is [illegible] capable of upsetting Dartmouth which had a nose [illegible] for the fact that [illegible] Princeton game before [illegible] found. The Bruins [illegible] Harvard, have strong [illegible] power.

Syracuse beat Cornell? It is quite possible. The Orange is a [illegible] Cornell veterans but is big and very fast with speedster Marty Glickman likely to bucket for a touchdown any time, and plenty of better [illegible] around men.

RAMS GET TEST

Fordham gets its first real tryout with powerful Purdue [illegible] past. Purdue could win this one but after a desperate fight to hold Minnesota to one touchdown last week is likely to let down a bit. Enough not enough to let the Rams romp.

Columbia sticks its chin out, going against Colgate. The latter is very tough, and Columbia has had two hard games in beating Yale and Army on successive week-ends.

Princeton, spotty but terrific when it occasionally clicked against Dartmouth, can trip Penn which will be heavily favored.

And so goes the story. A hundred corners of the map are worth [illegible] tomorrow, afternoon with as many upsets possible.

CONNELL.

Golf Phenom At Quincy

JOE EZAR

A colorful [illegible] exhibition, with a few of the shots by Joe Ezar of Texas, goes on today [illegible] at the Furnace Brook G. C. club in Quincy.

Ezar, Ted Bishop, Charley Mayo and another first-class golfer will play in the foursome, and then Ezar will lecture and display his [illegible] repertoire.

Woods Closed To Hunters

New England woodland hunters began the season North woods of Maine and part of Connecticut today found the cold spell caused a big lot of deer to come out from the mountains last month and the United International News Service.

Gubernatorial proclamations closed the woods of New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The hazard of forest fires and the WPA workers to study game conditions together were thousands of hunters he expected to take the largest toll since the woodland ban to sportsmen.

DUCK SEASON OPEN

Duck hunting was permitted only in the coastal regions in most states. The duck season opens tomorrow in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, and has been open since the first of the month in the other three states.

"Closed until further notice," was the substance of all the gubernatorial proclamations.

In Maine, only slightly affected by the hurricane, all woods were open except the state forests near the New Hampshire border. Maine's deer season opens tomorrow, and open all year and small game has been open since October 1.

CONNECTICUT BAN

In Connecticut, all woods hunting east of the Connecticut River was banned, with hunting permitted only in open areas or swamps. The area west of the Connecticut River was open to hunting and will remain open unless the fire hazard becomes worse.

Ruth Buries Pride, Will Go to Minors

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—Babe Ruth today is a sadly disillusioned, slightly disgruntled, but still highly optimistic baseball idol.

BABE RUTH

A few years ago the Yankees [illegible] to make him manager. Now the Dodgers have handed him the same boot of disappointment.

But Ol' Babe is still sore a longing and hopeful eye toward the Browns and Cardinals. And if they reject him, he probably will accept any of several offers he has had behind a motor engine man.

REALIZES MISTAKE

The Babe is different now from the [illegible] when he refused Jake Ruppert's offer to manage the Yankee farm at Newark. He would now take and he would have anything to [illegible] in baseball.

He now realizes that was a mistake, and is prepared to rectify it by showing what he can do with a minor league team as a stepping stone to a managerial berth in the majors.

The Babe expected to step from the coaching line of the Dodgers [illegible] but Leo Durocher [illegible] the spot [illegible] by the Babe.

[illegible] Babe [illegible] with [illegible] and the fact that [illegible] Ruth a raw [illegible] the Yanks and the Babe [illegible] that I said it [illegible] from a youngster he [illegible] to teach.

PLENTY OF MONEY

Babe [illegible] baseball [illegible] but the [illegible] has let it down again.

The dough doesn't mean much to me," his friend quoted the Babe. "It's the chance to realize an ambition I've always had to make good as a manager, and I still think I'm entitled to the chance.

"I have all the dough I need. I've got $1400 a month coming to me for life, and I've been making about $50,000 a year on the side.

"I made plenty of dough for the Dodgers playing in exhibition games last year when I didn't have to play at all.

"Oh, well, I may still land a vacant spot in the majors. If not, I may take a crack at the American Association. I've had a couple of offers out there.

"Understand, I'm not worried about the amount of dough I get. I'd rather accept $15,000 and be in a spot I like than take $100,000 in unpleasant surroundings.

"I may have made a mistake by not taking a minor league job before. But if that's the only road to a job in the majors, I might as well take it.

Reveal Marriage Of Injured Eli Back

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 14 (INS)—The secret marriage of Tom Mott, 23-year-old Yale varsity football reserve fullback from Brantford, to Katherine Terogowsky of New Haven on August 29 in St. Catherine's Church here, was revealed today.

Mott is in New Haven Hospital with a broken ankle, received in football practice. He is a junior in the school for engineering.

It was reported Mott received permission from the dean of the school of engineering and that his scholastic standing is not jeopardized by his marriage.

Injured Jockey In 'Good' Condition

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 14 (AP)—Donald Sens, Boston jockey was reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital here today after falling from a horse he was riding in the seventh race of Thursday's card at Narragansett Park.

Enthusiasm for Football Grows ‡ 3 Winners for Dave Wilson

By JACK CONWAY

BOSTON COLLEGE'S victory over the University of Detroit has created more football enthusiasm than anything that has happened in Boston since Harvard won from Yale last fall . . . This condition will result in a larger crowd at the Harvard-Army game at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon as well as at the other leading New England football offerings . . . A parlay if you wish it is Army to beat Harvard and Dartmouth to win over Brown.

Mr. Boston

Many Boston people started today for Hanover, N. H. where the "Big Green" team will play Brown tomorrow afternoon . . . It is regretted that this contest is not being staged at one of the local ball parks where it would be certain to attract 30,000 persons . . . It is still a long jaunt by auto from Providence, R. I. to Hanover, N. H. . . . When Brown played Harvard at the Stadium, thousands of persons came to Boston over the road, but were able to get back to Providence in time to have dinner at their favorite hotel or night spot.

Dave Wilson lived up to the best Wilson family traditions when he handed his followers three winners on opening day at Narragansett Park . . . Muggins, Silent Witness and Censor came down in front as Wilson stated they would, while Aftermath, his second choice in the second race, won to pay $16.40 . . . Did somebody in the gallery say something about Win With Wilson? . . . Like the sulphur and molasses your mother used to spoon out to you when you were a youngster, the Wilson treatment never fails if you are suffering from a deflated bankroll at the race track.

Col. Dave Egan is once more gazing upon the rustic beauties of Agawam now that he has completed his swell job as director of publicity at Rockingham Park . . . The Col. will take time out from admiring the scenic effects of the Berkshires to bang out a few thousand columns of publicity about the boxing and wrestling shows of Mons. Homer Renault.

B. C. to Play Under the Lights

IT WILL be an inspired Boston College eleven that will journey to Philadelphia to play Temple under the floodlights on next Friday evening . . . The Eagles' victory over the University of Detroit has acted as an excellent tonic to every man on the club . . . I look to see Boston College's playing improve with each game . . . It was Temple that held the Eagles to a tie in a dismal game on Columbus Day a year ago . . . Boston College played old style, rushing football . . . If Gil Dobie's club exhibits some of the same daring against Temple that enabled it to win from the University of Detroit, the Philadelphia crowd will witness some real thrills.

Paul Bowser dropped down to the press row at his Garden wrestling show last night to tell me that Steve Casey and his three brothers will sail for the United States next week . . . And that Dan O'Mahoney will start for the United States a few days later in the company of his manager, Jack McGrath . . . If Ireland had become involved in the recent war threat, Casey and Danno would have joined the colors . . . While both Casey and O'Mahony have filed their intentions to become American citizens, they are still citizens of the Irish Free State until such time as their final American papers are approved.

Cadets Always Put on a Show

IT WILL BE worth the price of admission at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon to see the Cadets from West Point come marching into the big, concrete Bowl . . . Chief of Police Leahy of Cambridge tells me he has completed arrangements with West Point officers for the handling and care of the Cadets for every second they are in Boston and Cambridge.

"The Army officers can tell you how many seconds it will take them to move the Cadets from one spot to another," said Chief Leahy . . . "Nothing is left to chance . . . Officers from West Point have already paced every foot of ground that will be covered by the Cadets tomorrow . . . The only thing the West Point officials cannot control are the emotions of the girl friends of the Cadets . . . The final partings are sometimes longer than those permitted by Army regulations, but the Cadets always manage to get aboard their special train before it departs for West Point from the Allston yard."

You may expect to see the Army playing at the top of its game . . . Its defeat by Columbia last Saturday was a crushing blow, especially when it appeared as if West Point's early lead would enable it to coast to victory . . . It will be a big, powerful Army team that will go against Harvard . . . Dick Harlow will use a varied attack with numerous forward passes in an effort to turn back the surge of the visitors.

Random Shots at Target

NOW THAT HE has completed his stay with the Dodgers as coach, Babe Ruth would like to get a job managing a big league club . . . Even though many of the baseball magnates do not believe Ruth would click as a manager the big fellow believes he would click if given an opportunity to act as a major league pilot . . . National League managers are changed so frequently some of the clubs could do much worse than take a chance with Ruth . . . The American League is definitely anti-Ruth minded.

Boston clubs at least escaped the drive against managers . . . Joe Cronin of the Red Sox and Casey Stengel of the Bees end their respective seasons with Tom Yawkey and Bob Quinn joining in the cheering for their baseball accomplishments.

Hergerts Sold To St. Louis Club

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14 (AP)—Ed Steffen, president of the Flyers of the American Hockey Association announced purchase of Fred Hergerts from the Cleveland Barons of the International League.

Hergerts, 27, was the Kansas City Greyhound's highest scorer during the 1937-38 season. He broke into professional hockey in 1932 with Syracuse. The Flyers start training October 24 and open here November 8 with the Tulsa Oilers.

Horsemen Honor Mrs. Whitney

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Payne Whitney of New York, owner of Greentree Farm, was honored as "the first lady of the American turf."

Honor guest at the seventh annual dinner of the Thoroughbred Club of America, Mrs. Whitney became the first woman in the history of the turf organization to receive the gold pin and scroll emblematic of life membership in the club and of distinguished service to the turf.

John Hay (Jock) Whitney, son of the honor guest, made the principal address.

Present tonight to honor Mrs. Whitney were three former recipients of the gold pin and scroll: Samuel D. Riddle, owner of War Admiral; former Senator Johnson N. Camden and Joseph E. Widener.

Others who have been honored by the club were Colonel E. R. Bradley, owner of Idle Hour farm; the late Desha Breckinridge and William Woodward.

Gossipers' Gurgling

Wilson to Buffalo; Grimes to Rochester

By Associated Press

The baseball gossipers have Burleigh Grimes catching on at Rochester and Jimmy Wilson at Buffalo . . . Just to show you how Bill McKechnie feels about his second base problem, he has offered Linus Frey, Wally Berger and a promising kid catcher, Will Hershberger, to Boston for the aging Tony Cuccinello.

The Messrs. Bill Terry and Larry MacPhail didn't almost square off against each other during the World Series, did they? . . . All because Brooklyn drafted a pitcher (Russ Evans) Terry had bought for Jersey City? . . . Anyway, their feud is at the "berling pernt," as they say in Brooklyn, and anything can happen . . .

Most of you didn't know it, but Ernie Lombardie of the Reds won the National League batting championship with a pair of sprained and tightly taped wrists during the last three weeks of the season . . . They were so swollen the club doctor told him to quit and go home . . . Most players would have done it, but old Ernie stuck and won the title with a mark of .342 . . . So while you are putting out vivas for Joe DiMaggio, Frankie Crosetti and other Italian heroes of the World Series, save a few lusty ones for old Ernie, who won the batting crown the hard way . . . There was no snap to his swing the last three weeks—he just pushed his bat out in front of him and every time he connected it hurt like the very devil.

Most baseball men think Ray Schalk already has signed to manage the St. Louis Browns . . . Henry Armstrong is 8 to 5 over Cefferino Garcia, and how can you figure that the way the Filipino can sock? . . . Baseball men are beginning to wonder what is going to happen to Frankie Frisch? . . . The Brooklyn club made dough last season, but a lot of it went back into the expense column—the new lighting system, Babe Ruth's $15,000 salary, etc. . . . What's become of the Budge-Turning-pro announcement? . . . From what they've been telling us it was all set for early this week.

Some queer things are happening out there in that Minnesota powerhouse . . . Bernie Bierman has a 217-pound fullback (Larry Buhler) playing right half and running the ends . . . Wilbur Moore, born and bred a right-half, is playing left and tearing the tackels apart for amazing yardage . . . Bierman has a converted fullback—George Faust—playing quarter and, oh yes, just for a change, fullback Marty Christianson is playing fullback . . . There is a hard-boiled hockey defense man (Mariucci) with a lot of body checking talent playing one end, and a basketball hot-shot guard (Butch Nash) playing the other . . . Guards play tackle and tackles play guard, and I am only sorry to report that centers Dan Elmer and John Kilbitski are not playing quarter . . . But give Bierman a chance—they may be there before the season is over.

Springfield Six Reports Tomorrow to Ex-Bruin

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 14—Chief of Police Hallisey predicts a bumper crop of football enthusiasts for tomorrow's game with Brown . . . He has drafted constables from all neighboring towns to handle the traffic . . . Taps have been sounded on many of the old guard but Harry Hillman, Jeff Tesreau, Tommy Keane and George Butler, ex-Mayor of E. Wallingford, Vt., are still as chipper as ever . . . Unless your auto is equipped with perfectly functioning shock absorbers avoid all short cuts if you intend to ride up here . . . Dave Queen, the University of California's 186 pound sophomore center, was chosen for the All-America prep school eleven while he was playing for Long Beach (Cal.), Poly . . . The University of New Hampshire, which was raised from a pup by Bill Cowell, has a new electric clock on the score board at Lewis Field . . . Jimmy Foxx, the Red Sox first sacker, who topped all American League batters last season, is still hitting them where they ain't . . . He's playing with an All-Star team down around Philly and over in the Metropolitan District . . . Dr. Eddie O'Brien did such a nice job on Emerson Dickman that the Red Sox rookie pitcher was only in the hospital two days . . . The Springfield Indians are due to report to Coach Fred Hitchman tomorrow at Quebec City . . . Jim Norris bought "Chuck" Conacher, the former Maple Leaf right winger, on the installment plan . . . He made a down payment of $5000 and if Conacher is still in action at the end of N. H. L. season, he'll send Connie Smythe a check for another five grand . . . A year from now the third and final payment is due, one of $6000 . . . Gabby Hartnett can case a 13 card hand in a split second . . . And, from memory list every card from left to right . . . But, he saw better card tricks (or was it done with mirrors) during the series . . . Byron "Whizzer" White has 13 pay days to get his $15,000 from the Pittsburgh Pirates . . . He picks up $1363.64 every time the ghost puts in an appearance . . . The coat of arms of Norway is among the official emblems chiselled in the stone of the Rockne Memorial Field House at Notre Dame . . . Gene Tunney is making anti-Communistic speeches . . . The Holy Cross Club of New York honored Willie Turnesa, the national amateur golf champion this week . . . Ed Cochrane, of the Windy City, has been officiating football games for 26 years . . . Rip Collins, who took it on the chin with the Cubs, is a radio announcer during the off season . . . Tommy Gorman, who piloted the Black Hawks and Maroons to successive world's championship, was elected president of the Connaught Park Jockey Club.

Yvon Wins

President's Son, Bride At Match

By JACK CONWAY

With John Roosevelt, son of the President, and his bride watching the battle from box seats opposite the ring, Yvon Robert started his drive to regain his former title as world's heavyweight wrestling champion by defeating K. O. Koverly in two out of three falls at the Garden.

The Roosevelts were furnished with plenty of stirring action. Koverly resorted to his usual punching tactics, and on other occasions threatened to punch it out with the crowd.

KOVERLY MISSES

Robert won the first toss with a top body press in 14m. 6s., while the second fall was gained by Koverly in 10m. 46s.

Robert used a reverse body hold to pin Koverly for the deciding fall in 5m. 4s. Koverly had missed with a right hand punch for the jaw, and when he rushed Robert the Frenchman permited him to go skyrocketing over his body. Yvon then came up quickly, caught Koverly while the latter was off balance, and pinned his shoulders to the mat.

SHADOW IMPRESSIVE

It was an enraged, indignant Koverly who stormed to his dressing room.

The Sheik won from Charley Strack of Oklahoma in 13m. 28s., with a reverse upright toe hold.

The Shadow looked impressive as he used a head and hip-lock to knock off Tommy Rae in 15m.

Babe Zaharias pinned Angelo Savoldi in 23m. 50s., while Roy Dunn and Ed White went 20m. to a draw.
